Strike Of Steel Workers Ends; Threaten More

Extension Of L & N Railroad Walkout Expected Monday

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 15 (AP)—A strike of 4,000 additional Louisville and Nashville Railroad workers was called for Monday as nearly 25,000 Birmingham steelworkers ended a one-day walkout in sympathy for striking telephone and L & N employes.

The call came as Southern Bell and Communications Workers of America (CIO) bargaining committees met again in Atlanta and reported no change in the situation.

Reports of violence accompanied the latest developments.

The Dixie Flyer, of the L&N subsidiary Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railway, was derailed near Nashville, Tenn., without serious injury reported. A railroad detective said it was "undoubtedly sabotage."

Cable cuttings and picket line disturbances marked the telephone strike.

The two strikes resulted in a called meeting of Southern governors in the states affected. They will seek a way Tuesday to help settle the strikes.

The steelworkers here returned to their jobs on the 3 p.m. shift, after having shut down the South's largest steel plant, the Fairfield works of U. S. Steel.

Workers also returned to their jobs on the same shift at plants of Woodward Iron Co., major merchant iron producer.

Reds Promise Withdrawal Of Austrian Units

Russia Says End Of Occupation By Year's End Possible

VIENNA, April 15 (AP)—Chancellor Julius Raab came home triumphantly from Moscow today with Russian promises that Austria may be free of Big Four occupation no later than the end of this year.

Raab, Premier of seven million people, indicated he was confident the Russians meant what they told him in Moscow.

"We will be free after 10 years of hope and struggle," he told a cheering crowd of welcomers.

The Soviets promised, in three days of talks, they would agree that their 44,000 troops, together with 23,000 of the United States, Britain and France, be withdrawn as soon as a treaty of independence is signed, and in any case not later than Dec. 31, 1955. They also made promises of big economic concessions.

For a long time the Western powers have been pressing Russia for agreement on an Austrian treaty including withdrawal of occupation forces. But withdrawal by the end of 1955 even if no treaty is signed apparently would need new four-power agreement.

Western and Austrian diplomats, including Raab, appeared confident a meeting of the Big Four ambassadors may take place soon in the Blue Danube capital in an effort to reach agreement on the still unsettled points of the treaty. They feel the conference would give the real answer as to whether a treaty will be signed by the end of the year.

During the last 10 years, the Big Four have had almost 300 meetings on one level or another on the treaty without final agreement.

Raab, cigar-smoking son of a rural building engineer, was given a hero's welcome by the flag-bedecked waltz city of Vienna. For the first time a Soviet occupation building in the center of the city the Austrian flag flew alongside the Red banner of the hammer and sickle.

Almost the entire Russian and Western diplomatic corps was on hand at the Russian's Bad Voeslau airfield, 22 miles south of Vienna, to meet and cheer the Chancellor, Vice Chancellor Adolf Schaerf, Foreign Minister Leopold Figl and other delegation members. They arrived in two Soviet military planes.

May 26 Tagged As Voting Date In Eden's Call

Future Of Present Ruling Party, Eden Staked On Voting

LONDON, April 15—UP—Prime Minister Anthony Eden Friday night issued a call for British general elections to be held on May 26.

In scheduling the vote Eden laid on the line his political future as well as that of the Conservative party. The move was a bold bid to emerge from the shadow of former Prime Minister Winston Churchill and win a public mandate of his own.

Eden told the nation in a radio broadcast that he has asked Queen Elizabeth II to dissolve the current parliament on May 6. The Queen, he said, agreed.

The prime minister said votes will be cast in a new general election May 26, and the new parliament will be called into session June 7.

The Queen will preside at the formal, constitutional opening of parliament just one week later, on June 14, amid the traditional pageantry and grandeur of such occasions.

The call for elections, anticipated ever since he succeeded the retiring Churchill, was broadcast to Britain by Eden from his official country residence at Chequers.

Eden spoke to the people, by radio, for the first time since he became prime minister. He gave only three hours notice of the important anouncement.

London's newspaper strike, which entered its fourth week Friday, forced him to turn to radio to summon the electorate to the polls.

SCOTT M'LEOD TELLS HIS SIDE OF CORSI CASE—Absently poking an ear, R. W. Scott McLeod, yesterday tells a Senate judiciary subcommitee in Washington his views on the Edward Corsi-State Department refugee immigration program case. Next witness will be Corsi, ousted last weekend as a department adviser on refugee problems. (AP Wirephoto)

McLeod Testifies He Suggested That Corsi Be Ousted

WASHINGTON, April 15—UP—State Department security chief Scott McLeod testified Friday he suggested that Edward J. Corsi resign two days after Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) demanded the refugee expert's ouster.

McLeod told a Senate Judiciary subcommittee he made the suggestion to Corsi on March 16. He said he wanted to let the New York Republican "withdraw gracefully and with dignity" as chief adviser to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles on immigration problems.

McLeod testified after Walter stated that he wrote Dulles on immigration problems.

McLeod testified after Walter stated that he wrote Dulles on March 14 demanding that Corsi be fired. Walter read a letter in which he described Corsi as "a person of inferior judgment" who was once associated with "highly objectionable groups."

McLeod and Walter testified before the Senate subcommittee in its politically-hot public investigation of the controversial U. S. refugee program and Dulles' sudden ouster of Corsi last week. The group is expected to meet again Wednesday with McLeod on the stand.

Walter told Dulles in the letter that Corsi was "a person of inferior judgment" who once associated with "highly objectionable groups" that later were put on the Justice Department's subversive list. Corsi has denied the charges.

Democrats Bow To Southerners On Oath Issue

Compromise Plan Increases Hope Of Success In 1956

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP) — Democratic leaders bowed to the South today by offering a compromise in the three-year-old "loyalty oath" fight under which most party members could bolt the presidential ticket without punishment.

With party officials talking hopefully of success in next year's election, an advisory group headed by former National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell laid out the compromise in a confidential report to be acted upon tomorrow.

An effort to force delegates to pledge support of the party's nominees split the 1952 convention wide open. A compromise at that time called for delegates to give their best efforts toward getting names of the nominees on the ballots in all states.

The name of President Truman was not on the ballot in Alabama in 1948. A States Rights ticket carried Alabama and three other Dixie states but Truman won the election.

The Mitchell report proposed that the national committee adopt a resolution saying:

Salesman's Car Recovered From Homochitto River

NATCHEZ, Miss., April 15 (AP) — The demolished car of a Baton Rouge, La., salesman was hauled from the Homochitto River today but no trace was found of his body.

P. O. Brady, 38, had been missing since he left here Wednesday afternoon shortly before the river ripped a 150-foot chunk out of a concrete bridge 17 miles south of here.

The car was located 70 yards downstream in 25 feet of water by a river searching for two cars which a witness said plunged into the flooded Homochitto before wooden barricades were thrown up at each end of the bridge.

Hundreds of spectators crowded the broken ends of the bridge watched C. O. Denese, New Orleans diver, go down to attach a cable to Brady's car so it could be dragged ashore.

Port Vincent In Path Of Flooding Louisiana Rivers

BATON ROUGE, April 16 (AP) — The Comite River crested early today short of the damaging 1953 flood peaks, but the rain-swollen Amite continued to rise and promised to top the 1953 peak.

Both rivers have driven nearby residents from their homes and damaged the surrounding countryside. An accurate count of homes evacuated or damage done was not available.

The flood areas are northeast and east of Baton Rouge.

The U.S. Geological Survey office here reported the Amite read 37.7 feet at 3 p.m. .6 feet short of the 1953 crest.

Officials said the Amite still was rising at the rate of .13 feet per hour and "present indications are it will slightly exceed the 1953 crest shortly after midnight. Indications are it will crest some time after midnight."

The worst will be over by tonight in the area around the Comite River.

The geological survey said the Comite read 51.5 feet at 3 p.m., a fall of .3 feet since the crest of 51.9

Earl Warren Not To Seek Presidency

WASHINGTON, April 15—UP—Chief Justice Earl Warren, frequently mentioned as a possible Republican presidential nominee, announced Friday that he never will be a candidate for the White House under any circumstances or conditions.

Mr. Warren said talk he might reenter politics "has been a matter of embarrassment to me because it reflects upon the performance of my duties as chief justice of the United States." He said he plans to spend the rest of his life on the high bench.

His decision, which he called "irrevocable," cut the ground out from under some Republicans who have been casting about for a "liberal" candidate in case President Eisenhower decides not to seek reelection next year.

The April 12 Gallup Poll showed that 25 per cent of the Republicans questioned favored Mr. Warren for the 1956 GOP nomination if Mr. Eisenhower does not run again. He was followed by Vice President Richard M. Nixon, 19 per cent, former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, 11 per cent.

Mr. Warren's political renunciation will add more weight to the arguments of those Republicans who are urging the President to seek a second term. Mr. Eisenhower has said he will not announce his decision until next spring — just a few months before the GOP convention.

Many of those pressing the chief executive to run again concede he probably would prefer to retire to his farm at Gettysburg, Pa.

Kennon To Send Delegate To Talks On Major Strikes

FRANKFORT, Ky., April 15 (AP)—Three governors said today they will attend a conference on regional railroad and telephone strikes next Tuesday at Nashville, Tenn. Another said he would be represented.

They replied by telegram to a call for the meeting by Kentucky Gov. Lawrence Wetherby, chairman of the Southern Governors conference.

Governors Marvin Griffin, Georgia; James E. Folsom, Alabama, and Hugh White, Mississippi, said they would attend.

Gov. Robert F. Kennon, Louisiana, said he would send a representative. Virginia's Gov. Thomas B. Stanley said that although he would not attend, he would concur in whatever action the group takes.

Govs. Luther H. Hodges, North Carolina; George Bell Timmerman Jr., South Carolina, and Le Roy Collins, Florida, had not replied by late this afternoon.

Wetherby yesterday summoned governors of the conference affected by either or both of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co. and Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co. strikes to meet in Tennessee Gov. Frank Clement's office.

Purpose, said Wetherby, was to discuss "a plan of action for the governors as a group to take to bring about a settlement of these controversies."

Admiral Returns

Ike To Get New Report On Formosa

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 15—UP—President Eisenhower will receive a first hand report on the Formosa situation Saturday from Adm. Felix B. Stump, the top naval officer in the Pacific, the vacation White House announced Friday.

Stump, who arrived in Washington Thursday, was asked to come to Augusta presumably to brief the President on latest developments in the Formoas Straits.

The commander-in-chief of the Pacific area is expected to arrive here by air at 8:30 in the morning and return to Washington about noon. Stump came back from the Far East Thursday to make routine reports to the Navy and Defense Departments.

Stump was recently in Formosa and also witnessed the Tachen Island evacuation in a supervisory role.

Sen. Walter F. George, powerful Democratic leader and chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, said Thursday night after a conference with Mr. Eisenhower that the President will be pepared "by the best advice that our experts can give him" if he must make a decision on whether or not to defend Quemoy and Matsu.

Stump would fill the role of "expert" as described by George.

Some prominent Republicans, among them Sen. William F. Knowland of California and Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, have demanded that the President or the administration declare what stand the United States would take if the Chinese Communists attack the off-shore islands.

Polio Vaccine On Way To State

INDIANAPOLIS, April 15 (AP) — Eli Lilly and Co., today turned over enough vaccine for 2,023,290 children to the Railway Express Agency for air express shipment overnight to public health authorities in 16 Southern states.

Railway Express's 330,000-mile transportation network already had been alerted for priority handling of vaccine.

West Proposes 4-Power Talks On Issue Of Taxes On Berlin-Bound Trucks

BONN, Germany, April 15 (AP)—The Western Big Three tonight proposed a four-power meeting with Russia on the high commission level to discuss reducing increased Communist taxes on trucks carrying supplies to West Berlin.

The West called the tax boosts "exorbitant" and said they gave the appearance of setting up a new blockade.

In identical notes to the Russians, the three Western high commissioners declared "Soviet authorities are responsible for insuring" that the increased taxes on truck traffic into isolated Berlin "are withdrawn without delay." They proposed that American, British, French and Russian high commissioners meet in Berlin "as soon as possible to discuss the settlement of this problem."

The East German government today formally notified the Western Allies of its decision to take unspecified "security measures" against West Berlin.

The Communists have called West Berlin the West's "main spy nest."

The official ADN news agency said an East German Cabinet resolution on "measures against the criminal plots of the imperialistic warmongers and their espionage agencies" was delivered to the Berlin offices of the Western Allied High Commissions.

There was no immediate comment from Allied authorities.

The Western note said:

"The arbitrary action of the East German authorities in imposing the exorbitant increases, on which there was no prior consultation with the West German experts, is clearly inconsistent with the Soviet government's undertakings, since it interferes with the 'normal functioning' of road transport in the Soviet zone."

They noted that the agreement of 1949 ending the blockade of Berlin guaranteed "the normal functioning and utilization of rail, water and road transport" between West Germany and Berlin.

Wife-Slaying

Sheppard Given Hearing To Offer 'New Evidence'

CLEVELAND, April 15 — UP — Convicted wife-killer Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard Friday was granted another chance to present "new evidence" that someone else murdered Marilyn Sheppard last July 4.

Common Pleas Judge Edward Blythin, who presided over the long trial that resulted in Dr. Sheppard's sentencing to life imprisonment, granted a defense request to hold the hearing April 27. Key witness for the 31-year-old osteopath, defense attorney William J. Corrigan said, would be Dr. Paul L. Kirk, a noted criminologist.

Dr. Kirk, University of California professor, spent four days here earlier this year studying the scene of the bludgeon-slaying. His findings were included in Corrigan's plea to the court of appeals to set aside the second-decree murder conviction.

One of Dr. Kirk's theories advance in the appeal was that a left-handed person committed the crime, and probably used a flashlight. Dr. Sheppard is right-handed, and the state claimed at his trial that something resembling a surgical instrument was used, although the weapon used never was produced.

The claim of "new evidence" was advanced just five days before a state-established deadline for such hearings expired. Dr. Sheppard was convicted Dec. 21, and law provides that evidence as basis for a new trial must be provided within 120 days.

Judge Blythin will preside over the April 27 hearing. If he orders a new trial, it would automatically void the action now before the court of appeals.

Saigon Hit Anew By Rebel Forces Of Religious Sects

SAIGON, April 15—UP—Black-clad rebel troops attacked government outposts in southwest Viet Nam with rifle and machine gun fire Friday in a series of sustained guerrilla raids.

Other rebels, rekindling the smoldering civil warfare, tossed grenades in Saigon, killing one government soldier and wounding six others.

The guerrilla raids were carried out by Hoa Hao sect troops led by the rebellious warlord, Gen. Ba Cut. His forces trained fire on a score of government army posts in western Cochinchina in harassing actions to paralyze truce efforts by American backed Premier Ngo Dinh Diem.

The grenade attacks in the capital were believed made by soldiers of a second dissident sect, the Binh Xuyen, whose forces are entrenched in suburban Cholon in defiance of the premier.

A blockade of the city, which had been lifted for an "Easter truce," was imposed anew Thursday night by the rebellious sects.

Boy, 15, Convicted 'Draft Dodger'

Released After Unusual Case Is Unsnarled Here

A six-foot, 185 - pound, 15-year-old boy who had been convicted of failing to register for the Armed Forces while acting under an assumed name and while pretending that he was 19 years of age was freed in U. S. District court yesterday after serving a portion of a term in a reformatory for draft evasion.

The youth, whose name was withheld because he is a juvenile, was originally arrested in Lake Charles in October, 1954, when he was unable to produce a draft registration card although he gave his age as 18. At that time he reportedly told law enforcement officers that he had not registered and that he knew he had violated the Selective Service law.

He later pleaded guilty to a charge of draft evasion and was sentenced to serve 22 months in a reformatory. But after being in the reformatory for a time, he told authorities that he had been convicted under an assumed name and that he was really only 15 years of age.

Yesterday, Judge Ben Dawkins Jr. set aside the conviction and sentence on the selective service charge.

The youth claimed that he had failed to give his real name and age when arrested for fear of facing a criminal charge in another state.

Trial of the consolidated cases of Vernon Hobgood and T. Finkbeiner, charged with violation of the federal migratory game bird act, ended in a mistrial as to both defendants late yesterday when the jury failed to reach a verdict after several hours of deliberation.

These cases completed the criminal docket for the current criminal session but another session of criminal court will be held in mid-May.

Earlier yesterday, Ben Calloway, Negro, was given a suspended jail sentence of six months and placed on probation for five years after pleading guilty to a charge of making false statements in order to obtain a bank loan.

By KENNETH BROINEY

MOSCOW, April 15—UP— Russia Friday signed an agreement with Austria for a peace treaty under which Soviet occupation troops would be withdrawn by the end of this year if the Western Allies accept the terms.

The agreement, of far-reaching significance, reverses Russia's former demand that its occupation troops, and those of the Western big three, remain in Austria even after a treaty is concluded.

Russia's demands for indefinite continuation of the occupation had been one of the principal stumbling-blocks to a treaty until now.

In the new aide memoire, negotiated here between Russia and Austria and signed by both Friday, Moscow promises to withdraw occupation troops as soon as a treaty is signed, and not later than Dec. 31, 1955. But such action hinges on the treaty being signed by the Western powers by that date.

Russia also agreed to free all Austrian prisoners of war and all civilians now held in the Soviet Union as soon as Soviet troops are withdrawn from Austria.

A communique on the agreement showed that the Soviets further promised to limit their reparations demands to $150 million, to be paid entirely in Austrian commodities.

Moscow's willingness to fix a deadline for ending the occupation of Austria was regarded here as one of the most significant Soviet moves in nine years of treaty negotiations with the United States, Britain and France.

Agreement by Russia to an acceptable Austrian treaty was one of the prior conditions — or demonstrations of good faith — laid down by President Eisenhower for consideration of new East-West conferences seeking to end cold war tensions.

The United States, Britain and France still must study, approve and sign the proposed Austrian treaty before concrete progress becomes an accomplished fact. So the next step in the progress will agreed upon between Austria and Russia by the big three Western powers.

It is expected that a call will be issued soon for a conference of the Western powers, Russia and Austria to put the agreement into final form.

A draft treaty for Austria, written by the United States, Russia, Britain and France in 1949 brought the four powers into agreement on all but five points of the proposed treaty. But those five points had prevented final greement until now.

The car was located 70 yards downstream in 25 feet of water by a river searching for two cars which a witness said plunged into the flooded Homochitto before wooden barricades were thrown up at each end of the bridge.

Hundreds of spectators crowded the broken ends of the bridge watched C. O. Denese, New Orleans diver, go down to attach a cable to Brady's car so it could be dragged ashore.

Port Vincent In Path Of Flooding Louisiana Rivers

BATON ROUGE, April 16 (AP) — The Comite River crested early today short of the damaging 1953 flood peaks, but the rain-swollen Amite continued to rise and promised to top the 1953 peak.

Both rivers have driven nearby residents from their homes and damaged the surrounding countryside. An accurate count of homes evacuated or damage done was not available.

The flood areas are northeast and east of Baton Rouge.

The U.S. Geological Survey office here reported the Amite read 37.7 feet at 3 p.m. .6 feet short of the 1953 crest.

Officials said the Amite still was rising at the rate of .13 feet per hour and "present indications are it will slightly exceed the 1953 crest shortly after midnight. Indications are it will crest some time after midnight."

The worst will be over by tonight in the area around the Comite River.

The geological survey said the Comite read 51.5 feet at 3 p.m., a fall of .3 feet since the crest of 51.9

BONN, Germany, April 15 (AP)—The Western Big Three tonight proposed a four-power meeting with Russia on the high commission level to discuss reducing increased Communist taxes on trucks carrying supplies to West Berlin.

The West called the tax boosts "exorbitant" and said they gave the appearance of setting up a new blockade.

In identical notes to the Russians, the three Western high commissioners declared "Soviet authorities are responsible for insuring" that the increased taxes on truck traffic into isolated Berlin "are withdrawn without delay." They proposed that American, British, French and Russian high commissioners meet in Berlin "as soon as possible to discuss the settlement of this problem."

The East German government today formally notified the Western Allies of its decision to take unspecified "security measures" against West Berlin.

The official ADN news agency said an East German Cabinet resolution on "measures against the criminal plots of the imperialistic warmongers and their espionage agencies" was delivered to the Berlin offices of the Western Allied High Commissions.

There was no immediate comment from Allied authorities.

The Western note said:

"The arbitrary action of the East German authorities in imposing the exorbitant increases, on which there was no prior consultation with the West German experts, is clearly inconsistent with the Soviet government's undertakings, since it interferes with the 'normal functioning' of road transport in the Soviet zone."

They noted that the agreement of 1949 ending the blockade of Berlin guaranteed "the normal functioning and utilization of rail, water and road transport" between West Germany and Berlin.

Wife-Slaying

Sheppard Given Hearing To Offer 'New Evidence'

CLEVELAND, April 15 — UP — Convicted wife-killer Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard Friday was granted another chance to present "new evidence" that someone else murdered Marilyn Sheppard last July 4.

Common Pleas Judge Edward Blythin, who presided over the long trial that resulted in Dr. Sheppard's sentencing to life imprisonment, granted a defense request to hold the hearing April 27. Key witness for the 31-year-old osteopath, defense attorney William J. Corrigan said, would be Dr. Paul L. Kirk, a noted criminologist.

Dr. Kirk, University of California professor, spent four days here earlier this year studying the scene of the bludgeon-slaying. His findings were included in Corrigan's plea to the court of appeals to set aside the second-decree murder conviction.

One of Dr. Kirk's theories advance in the appeal was that a left-handed person committed the crime, and probably used a flashlight. Dr. Sheppard is right-handed, and the state claimed at his trial that something resembling a surgical instrument was used, although the weapon used never was produced.

The claim of "new evidence" was advanced just five days before a state-established deadline for such hearings expired. Dr. Sheppard was convicted Dec. 21, and law provides that evidence as basis for a new trial must be provided within 120 days.

Judge Blythin will preside over the April 27 hearing. If he orders a new trial, it would automatically void the action now before the court of appeals.

Earl Warren Not To Seek Presidency

WASHINGTON, April 15—UP—Chief Justice Earl Warren, frequently mentioned as a possible Republican presidential nominee, announced Friday that he never will be a candidate for the White House under any circumstances or conditions.

Mr. Warren said talk he might reenter politics "has been a matter of embarrassment to me because it reflects upon the performance of my duties as chief justice of the United States." He said he plans to spend the rest of his life on the high bench.

His decision, which he called "irrevocable," cut the ground out from under some Republicans who have been casting about for a "liberal" candidate in case President Eisenhower decides not to seek re-election next year.

The April 12 Gallup Poll showed that 25 per cent of the Republicans questioned favored Mr. Warren for the 1956 GOP nomination if Mr. Eisenhower does not run again. He was followed by Vice President Richard M. Nixon, 19 per cent, former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, 11 per cent.

Mr. Warren's political renunciation will add more weight to the arguments of those Republicans who are urging the President to seek a second term. Mr. Eisenhower has said he will not announce his decision until next spring — just a few months before the GOP convention.

Many of those pressing the chief executive to run again concede he probably would prefer to retire to his farm at Gettysburg, Pa.

Saigon Hit Anew By Rebel Forces Of Religious Sects

SAIGON, April 15—UP—Black-clad rebel troops attacked government outposts in southwest Viet Nam with rifle and machine gun fire Friday in a series of sustained guerrilla raids.

Other rebels, rekindling the smoldering civil warfare, tossed grenades in Saigon, killing one government soldier and wounding six others.

The guerrilla raids were carried out by Hoa Hao sect troops led by the rebellious warlord, Gen. Ba Cut. His forces trained fire on a score of government army posts in western Cochinchina in harassing actions to paralyze truce efforts by American backed Premier Ngo Dinh Diem.

The grenade attacks in the capital were believed made by soldiers of a second dissident sect, the Binh Xuyen, whose forces are entrenched in suburban Cholon in defiance of the premier.

A blockade of the city, which had been lifted for an "Easter truce," was imposed anew Thursday night by the rebellious sects.

'Ike To Get New Report On Formosa

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 15—UP—President Eisenhower will receive a first hand report on the Formosa situation Saturday from Adm. Felix B. Stump, the top naval officer in the Pacific, the vacation White House announced Friday.

Stump, who arrived in Washington Thursday, was asked to come to Augusta presumably to brief the President on latest developments in the Formoas Straits.

The commander-in-chief of the Pacific area is expected to arrive here by air at 8:30 in the morning and return to Washington about noon. Stump came back from the Far East Thursday to make routine reports to the Navy and Defense Departments.

Stump was recently in Formosa and also witnessed the Tachen Island evacuation in a supervisory role.

Sen. Walter F. George, powerful Democratic leader and chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, said Thursday night after a conference with Mr. Eisenhower that the President will be pepared "by the best advice that our experts can give him" if he must make a decision on whether or not to defend Quemoy and Matsu.

Stump would fill the role of "expert" as described by George.

Some prominent Republicans, among them Sen. William F. Knowland of California and Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, have demanded that the President or the administration declare what stand the United States would take if the Chinese Communists attack the off-shore islands.

Kennon To Send Delegate To Talks On Major Strikes

FRANKFORT, Ky., April 15 (AP)—Three governors said today they will attend a conference on regional railroad and telephone strikes next Tuesday at Nashville, Tenn. Another said he would be represented.

They replied by telegram to a call for the meeting by Kentucky Gov. Lawrence Wetherby, chairman of the Southern Governors conference.

Governors Marvin Griffin, Georgia; James E. Folsom, Alabama, and Hugh White, Mississippi, said they would attend.

Gov. Robert F. Kennon, Louisiana, said he would send a representative. Virginia's Gov. Thomas B. Stanley said that although he would not attend, he would concur in whatever action the group takes.

Govs. Luther H. Hodges, North Carolina; George Bell Timmerman Jr., South Carolina, and Le Roy Collins, Florida, had not replied by late this afternoon.

Wetherby yesterday summoned governors of the conference affected by either or both of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co. and Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co. strikes to meet in Tennessee Gov. Frank Clement's office.

Purpose, said Wetherby, was to discuss "a plan of action for the governors as a group to take to bring about a settlement of these controversies."

Boy, 15, Convicted 'Draft Dodger'

Released After Unusual Case Is Unsnarled Here

A six-foot, 185 - pound, 15-year-old boy who had been convicted of failing to register for the Armed Forces while acting under an assumed name and while pretending that he was 19 years of age was freed in U. S. District court yesterday after serving a portion of a term in a reformatory for draft evasion.

The youth, whose name was withheld because he is a juvenile, was originally arrested in Lake Charles in October, 1954, when he was unable to produce a draft registration card although he gave his age as 18. At that time he reportedly told law enforcement officers that he had not registered and that he knew he had violated the Selective Service law.

He later pleaded guilty to a charge of draft evasion and was sentenced to serve 22 months in a reformatory. But after being in the reformatory for a time, he told authorities that he had been convicted under an assumed name and that he was really only 15 years of age.

Yesterday, Judge Ben Dawkins Jr. set aside the conviction and sentence on the selective service charge.

The youth claimed that he had failed to give his real name and age when arrested for fear of facing a criminal charge in another state.

Trial of the consolidated cases of Vernon Hobgood and T. Finkbeiner, charged with violation of the federal migratory game bird act, ended in a mistrial as to both defendants late yesterday when the jury failed to reach a verdict after several hours of deliberation.

These cases completed the criminal docket for the current criminal session but another session of criminal court will be held in mid-May.

Earlier yesterday, Ben Calloway, Negro, was given a suspended jail sentence of six months and placed on probation for five years after pleading guilty to a charge of making false statements in order to obtain a bank loan.

By KENNETH BROINEY

MOSCOW, April 15—UP— Russia Friday signed an agreement with Austria for a peace treaty under which Soviet occupation troops would be withdrawn by the end of this year if the Western Allies accept the terms.

The agreement, of far-reaching significance, reverses Russia's former demand that its occupation troops, and those of the Western big three, remain in Austria even after a treaty is concluded.

In the new aide memoire, negotiated here between Russia and Austria and signed by both Friday, Moscow promises to withdraw occupation troops as soon as a treaty is signed, and not later than Dec. 31, 1955. But such action hinges on the treaty being signed by the Western powers by that date.

Russia also agreed to free all Austrian prisoners of war and all civilians now held in the Soviet Union as soon as Soviet troops are withdrawn from Austria.

A communique on the agreement showed that the Soviets further promised to limit their reparations demands to $150 million, to be paid entirely in Austrian commodities.

Moscow's willingness to fix a deadline for ending the occupation of Austria was regarded here as one of the most significant Soviet moves in nine years of treaty negotiations with the United States, Britain and France.

Agreement by Russia to an acceptable Austrian treaty was one of the prior conditions — or demonstrations of good faith — laid down by President Eisenhower for consideration of new East-West conferences seeking to end cold war tensions.

The United States, Britain and France still must study, approve and sign the proposed Austrian treaty before concrete progress becomes an accomplished fact. So the next step in the progress will agreed upon between Austria and Russia by the big three Western powers.

It is expected that a call will be issued soon for a conference of the Western powers, Russia and Austria to put the agreement into final form.

A draft treaty for Austria, written by the United States, Russia, Britain and France in 1949 brought the four powers into agreement on all but five points of the proposed treaty. But those five points had prevented final greement until now.

District High School Principals Will Meet Here

Northeast Louisiana State College will play host to the 3rd District Principals Association on April 19. About 100 principals were expected to attend, according to D. W. McBride, principal of the Oak Grove High School and president of the nine-parish organization.

The meeting will get under way at 9 a.m. with registrations and coffee in the college president's home.

A discussion of the planned Special Education Clinic at Northeast State, which will open this fall, will be included. The clinic will be sponsored jointly by the State Department of Education, Northeast State and parishes in this area. Purpose of the clinic will be to provide services for exceptional children of this section. It will not attempt to supplant any agencies now operating, but is intended to enrich the services for children.

Dr. Clint Hanna, director of admissions and special services at Northeast, will talk on the role of the principal in today's schools.

Parishes in the 3rd District Association include: East Carroll, West Carroll, Tensas, Concordia, Madison, Franklin, Richland, Ouachita and Morehouse.

The visiting group will be luncheon guests of the college.

German Militarists Seek Plan To Block Red Armor

BONN, Germany, April 15 (AP) — German Military experts are urging complete revamping of NATO strategy to prevent West Germany becoming a battlefield again.

A campaign for a new plan to stop Russian tanks at West Germany's eastern border received new impetus today. The influential weekly Soldaten Zeitung threw its weight behind the idea.

The West German press is becoming increasingly critical of present NATO plans. These call for highly mobile Western forces to steer Russian divisions into areas were they can be atom bombed out of existence. This, German critics say, would make thickly populated West Germany a battlefield twice.

First, they say, there would be the Russian advance. Then would come the counterattack.

To prevent this, they urge that new German forces man a strongly fortified antitank line along the Iron Curtain to stop any Russian advance into West Germany. They want Western divisions kept in reserve to drive the Russians back into East Germany after the Red assault has been cut to pieces by the German defenders.

One of Bonn's top military planners, former Col. Borislaw von Bonin, has already been fired because he advocated this system. The Defense Commission said he had been "disloyal" in seeking the support of former generals for the plan, which had been turned down by Defense Commissioner Theodor Blank. Since then a number of newspapers have supported von Bonin.

Albert Wienstein, a former staff major and now military commentator for the influential Allgemeine Zeitung, wants the entire NATO plan for 12 German divisions, a tactical air force and coastal navy scrapped.

He proposes instead:

These proposals, which have a powerful appeal to public desires not to surrender any territory to the Russians, differ considerably from present Western thinking. At one time the Western armies in Germany were expecting to fall back to the Rhine. Now they have been strengthened sufficiently to make a fight of it between the Elbe and the Rhine.

Tuesday, Gen. Anthony C. MacAuliffe said American forces now propose to fight "for every inch of the ground we hold."

Officials said the downstream areas of the Comite should have no further rise from 6 p.m. until midnight and then the river should begin to fall "at a fairly rapid rate by tomorrow morning or early afternoon."

The worst damage in the Amite River flood centered around Denham Springs, where a number of families were forced from their homes.

However, the geological survey warned Port Vincent, downstream where the combined waters of the Amite and Comite flow, it will face damages beyond those in 1953. The worst should come early tomorrow morning.

Just a diversion for those who lingered in the lobby of the post office Thursday afternoon, was the auction sale of 100 unclaimed day-old chicks that were put up for sale by post office employe, Jimmie Kincaid. A man in the crowd who looked as if his knowledge of chickens was encompassed by the end of his knife and fork, bid a single dollar, "just to start things off," he said and he admitted he had no desire to acquire the small chicken brood.

Finally the bids reached $2.50 and the hundred little peepers were knocked down to a man who appeared as if in earnest to acquire the little fellows.

He set forth for downtown Monroe to the place from where the offending $20 alleged account was mailed out and engaged a clerk in an argument. After considerable talk on both sides, an old ledger was produced and presto! The bill was marked paid!

Approximately 25,000 non-operating union employes of the L&N have been on a strike since March 14 in a dispute over welfare benefits.

A union spokesman said the strikes were called because the railroad had fired some individual members of the operating unions for refusal to cross picket lines. Supervisory personnel has kept L&N freight trains operating but the railroad halled passenger service soon after the strike began.

At Louisville, Ky., an L&N official denied that the new strike would interfere with present service on the railroad.

Walter told reporters Tuesday that he never had discussed the Corsi case with Dulles and only mentioned it once to Scott McLeod, State Department security chief and administrator of the refugee program.

In the letter, Walter told Dulles the "only proper thing to do" was to fire Corsi. He said the Italian-born New York Republican, in writing "propaganda leaflets" against the immigration law "was addicted to avoiding telling the truth when a lie would serve propaganda purposes."

Dulles told a news conference Tuesday that Corsi was fired because he tried to circumvent the law and set himself up as head of the refugee program over McLeod. Dulles said Corsi was not qualified to administer the program.

2-Hour Power Failure Hits South Side Area

A failure at the municipal power plant tossed vast sections of Monroe into darkness last night. The south side area was hardest hit.

Some sections of the south side were in darkness for nearly two hours.

T. L. Van Fossen, consulting engineer for the city, said an auxiliary unit went out at the plant. He said service had been switched to the auxilliary unit earlier.

A brief blackout in the downtown area had been anticipated when three feeder lines were switched around 7 p.m. However, the failure that sent hundreds of south side homes into darkness apparently had not been anticipated.

While the blackout continued, irate south side residents repeatedly called the Morning World demanding to know "What's the trouble." No one with the city could be contacted during the two-hour blackout.

11-Year-Old Girl Reported Missing After School Here

Monroe city police and Ouachita parish sheriff's department officers were searching last night for an 11-year-old Monroe girl who had failed to return home yesterday afternoon from school.

She was named as Shirley "Cate" Sears, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sears, 105 Buck Jones Lane.

The girl who attends Central Grammar school, stopped at the home of a great aunt, Mrs. Martha Gunter, 717 Wood St., after school was dismissed at 2:30 p.m. Mrs. Gunter said that she left there between 3 and 4 p.m. and that she saw her turn off Sixth St. on to Layton.

Later, at about 5 p.m., she was seen near the railroad station in the 400 block of Ouachita Ave., according to a call to the police department early last night.

Her mother, the former Virgie Cowden, said Mrs. Gunter advised her to catch a bus in front of the Gunter house but that she "wouldn't do it."

Mrs. Sears said it was not like her daughter to stay away from home after dark because "she is afraid of the dark."

The girl was reportedly wearing a navy blue top coat, white and brown oxford shoes and a green and white checkered dress. She also wears spectacles.

District High School Principals Will Meet Here

Northeast Louisiana State College will play host to the 3rd District Principals Association on April 19. About 100 principals were expected to attend, according to D. W. McBride, principal of the Oak Grove High School and president of the nine-parish organization.

The meeting will get under way at 9 a.m. with registrations and coffee in the college president's home.

A discussion of the planned Special Education Clinic at Northeast State, which will open this fall, will be included. The clinic will be sponsored jointly by the State Department of Education, Northeast State and parishes in this area. Purpose of the clinic will be to provide services for exceptional children of this section. It will not attempt to supplant any agencies now operating, but is intended to enrich the services for children.

Dr. Clint Hanna, director of admissions and special services at Northeast, will talk on the role of the principal in today's schools.

Parishes in the 3rd District Association include: East Carroll, West Carroll, Tensas, Concordia, Madison, Franklin, Richland, Ouachita and Morehouse.

German Militarists Seek Plan To Block Red Armor

BONN, Germany, April 15 (AP) — German Military experts are urging complete revamping of NATO strategy to prevent West Germany becoming a battlefield again.

A campaign for a new plan to stop Russian tanks at West Germany's eastern border received new impetus today. The influential weekly Soldaten Zeitung threw its weight behind the idea.

The West German press is becoming increasingly critical of present NATO plans. These call for highly mobile Western forces to steer Russian divisions into areas were they can be atom bombed out of existence. This, German critics say, would make thickly populated West Germany a battlefield twice.

First, they say, there would be the Russian advance. Then would come the counterattack.

To prevent this, they urge that new German forces man a strongly fortified antitank line along the Iron Curtain to stop any Russian advance into West Germany. They want Western divisions kept in reserve to drive the Russians back into East Germany after the Red assault has been cut to pieces by the German defenders.

One of Bonn's top military planners, former Col. Borislaw von Bonin, has already been fired because he advocated this system. The Defense Commission said he had been "disloyal" in seeking the support of former generals for the plan, which had been turned down by Defense Commissioner Theodor Blank. Since then a number of newspapers have supported von Bonin.

Albert Wienstein, a former staff major and now military commentator for the influential Allgemeine Zeitung, wants the entire NATO plan for 12 German divisions, a tactical air force and coastal navy scrapped.

He proposes instead:

These proposals, which have a powerful appeal to public desires not to surrender any territory to the Russians, differ considerably from present Western thinking. At one time the Western armies in Germany were expecting to fall back to the Rhine. Now they have been strengthened sufficiently to make a fight of it between the Elbe and the Rhine.

Tuesday, Gen. Anthony C. MacAuliffe said American forces now propose to fight "for every inch of the ground we hold."

Officials said the downstream areas of the Comite should have no further rise from 6 p.m. until midnight and then the river should begin to fall "at a fairly rapid rate by tomorrow morning or early afternoon."

The worst damage in the Amite River flood centered around Denham Springs, where a number of families were forced from their homes.

However, the geological survey warned Port Vincent, downstream where the combined waters of the Amite and Comite flow, it will face damages beyond those in 1953. The worst should come early tomorrow morning.

well be proud of its fast expanding college and its new buildings.

Just a diversion for those who lingered in the lobby of the post office Thursday afternoon, was the auction sale of 100 unclaimed day-old chicks that were put up for sale by post office employe, Jimmie Kincaid. A man in the crowd who looked as if his knowledge of chickens was encompassed by the end of his knife and fork, bid a single dollar, "just to start things off," he said and he admitted he had no desire to acquire the small chicken brood.

Finally the bids reached $2.50 and the hundred little peepers were knocked down to a man who appeared as if in earnest to acquire the little fellows.

Speaking of the post office by which we mean the main one on Jackson at Grammont, made us think of a call we made, the very first one, by the way, to the Louisville branch yesterday. We were received with the utmost cordiality by the men in charge. "This place is just fine for us to use as our workshop," declared Ed Hayward, one of the staff members, "everyone up here knows all our patrons and it is like one big family!" Ed declared.

Mrs. J. W. Nelson, Grayling Lane, informs that her two brothers, Col. William (Bill) McClary an Sam McClary, are now for the first time stationed within sixty miles of each other, the colonel in Fortress Monroe near Norfolk, Va. and Sam, with the Marines, at Cherry Point. They get to see each other often, she said.

"The bank boys (Central Savings) are getting so fixed up that we country boys will not be able to find ourselves if we aren't careful!" stated J. W .Keene, as he emerged from a call at the big institution at DeSiard and Jackson Streets.

Possessed by fear that he would have to pay a bill twice over was the condition of Eugene Crowell. The mail man brought a letter in which was a bill for $20 which Crowell swore he paid a year ago. But when he skirmished to find receipts, this was not to be found.

He set forth for downtown Monroe to the place from where the offending $20 alleged account was mailed out and engaged a clerk in an argument. After considerable talk on both sides, an old ledger was produced and presto! The bill was marked paid!

Sidney Joffrion is encouraged to learn that the wildcat test is started on the McDonald farm, highway 165 south of the city. He says some land is being leased nearby for $25 an acre. He's happy that he got his lease before the price catapaulted.

Strike Of Steel

Approximately 25,000 non-operating union employes of the L&N have been on a strike since March 14 in a dispute over welfare benefits.

A union spokesman said the strikes were called because the railroad had fired some individual members of the operating unions for refusal to cross picket lines. Supervisory personnel has kept L&N freight trains operating but the railroad halted passenger service soon after the strike began.

At Louisville, Ky., an L&N official denied that the new strike would interfere with present service on the railroad.

missal of Corsi last week. Dulles has said Walter's security charges had nothing to do with Corsi's dismissal.

Walter told reporters Tuesday that he never had discussed the Corsi case with Dulles and only mentioned it once to Scott McLeod, State Department security chief and administrator of the refugee program.

In the letter, Walter told Dulles the "only proper thing to do" was to fire Corsi. He said the Italian-born New York Republican, in writing "propaganda leaflets" against the immigration law "was addicted to avoiding telling the truth when a lie would serve propaganda purposes."

Dulles told a news conference Tuesday that Corsi was fired because he tried to circumvent the law and set himself up as head of the refugee program over McLeod. Dulles said Corsi was not qualified to administer the program.

BIGGS, NOT GRIGGS

A case in the city court proceedings Thursday, listing J. M. Griggs, as being fined a total of $50 on charges of reckless driving and not having a driver's license, should have read: Jesse M. Biggs, of Elm street.

2-Hour Power Failure Hits South Side Area

A failure at the municipal power plant tossed vast sections of Monroe into darkness last night. The south side area was hardest hit.

Some sections of the south side were in darkness for nearly two hours.

T. L. Van Fossen, consulting engineer for the city, said an auxiliary unit went out at the plant. He said service had been switched to the auxilliary unit earlier.

A brief blackout in the downtown area had been anticipated when three feeder lines were switched around 7 p.m. However, the failure that sent hundreds of south side homes into darkness apparently had not been anticipated.

While the blackout continued, irate south side residents repeatedly called the Morning World demanding to know "What's the trouble." No one with the city could be contacted during the two-hour blackout.

11-Year-Old Girl Reported Missing After School Here

Monroe city police and Ouachita parish sheriff's department officers were searching last night for an 11-year-old Monroe girl who had failed to return home yesterday afternoon from school.

She was named as Shirley "Cate" Sears, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sears, 105 Buck Jones Lane.

The girl who attends Central Grammar school, stopped at the home of a great aunt, Mrs. Martha Gunter, 717 Wood St., after school was dismissed at 2:30 p.m. Mrs. Gunter said that she left there between 3 and 4 p.m. and that she saw her turn off Sixth St. on to Layton.

Later, at about 5 p.m., she was seen near the railroad station in the 400 block of Ouachita Ave., according to a call to the police department early last night.

Her mother, the former Virgie Cowden, said Mrs. Gunter advised her to catch a bus in front of the Gunter house but that she "wouldn't do it."

Mrs. Sears said it was not like her daughter to stay away from home after dark because "she is afraid of the dark."

The girl was reportedly wearing a navy blue top coat, white and brown oxford shoes and a green and white checkered dress. She also wears spectacles.

The two detectives who apprehended the man at 6 p.m. at the hotel were Capt. H. B. Johnson, and Sgt. S. G. Martin.

Tolbert said the man late yesterday had admitted cashing checks under the name of John F. Summers in about seven or eight different states.

All but one of the checks issued here by the man had been accounted for, Tolbert stated, late yesterday afternoon. The total of the five hecks was $413.42. When it is learned what the amount of the sixth check is, Tolbert stated that the figure may exceed $500.

"Groom will be held and charged with forgery," Chief Tolbert said last night.

At the last account the Ouachita Parish sheriff department was questioning the man on his avtivities.

Tolbert listed the places that the man had admitted cashing checks under the name of John F. Summers as: New Orleans; Colorado Springs, Colo.; Marnett, Wisc.; Logansport, Indiana; Philadelphia, Penn.; Santa Fe, New Mex.; and Tarpon Springs, Fla.

One third of all cancer deaths could be avioded if proper treatment were begun before the cancers spread. The American Cancer Society's annual Crusade can save many of these lives if adequate funds are contributed.

Last year, 24,000 Americans died of lung cancer, about seven times as many as in 1933. Early detection with chest X-rays twice a year can cut that toll. Support this effort by contributing to the American Cancer Society.

Alabaman Admits Hot Check Spree Here Yesterday

An admitted hot-check artist Friday bilked six local merchants for over $400, but was arrested by two Monroe city detectives late yesterday afternoon at a local hotel.

The two detectives who apprehended the man at 6 p.m. at the hotel were Capt. H. B. Johnson, and Sgt. S. G. Martin.

Chief Tolbert stated that Groom using the name of Frank C. Johnston, checked-in here last night from Shreveport and had admitted cashing the six checks during the day with local merchants.

Tolbert said the man late yesterday had admitted cashing checks under the name of John F. Summers in about seven or eight different states.

All but one of the checks issued here by the man had been accounted for, Tolbert stated, late yesterday afternoon. The total of the five hecks was $413.42. When it is learned what the amount of the sixth check is, Tolbert stated that the figure may exceed $500.

Groom, using a check protector, in his check-writing spree here yesterday, issued payroll checks made payable to Frank C. Johnston and signed H. M. Rowe of the Rowe Enginnering Company of Shreveport. The man had the checks on the Commercial National Bank of Shreveport.

Suitcases, cuff-links, shirts, suits, and numerous other items of merchandise "purchased" by Groom was recovered from his hotel room, detectives stated.

"Groom will be held and charged with forgery," Chief Tolbert said last night.

At the last account the Ouachita Parish sheriff department was questioning the man on his avtivities.

Tolbert listed the places that the man had admitted cashing checks under the name of John F. Summers as: New Orleans; Colorado Springs, Colo.; Marnett, Wisc.; Logansport, Indiana; Philadelphia, Penn.; Santa Fe, New Mex.; and Tarpon Springs, Fla.

One third of all cancer deaths could be avioded if proper treatment were begun before the cancers spread. The American Cancer Society's annual Crusade can save many of these lives if adequate funds are contributed.

Last year, 24,000 Americans died of lung cancer, about seven times as many as in 1933. Early detection with chest X-rays twice a year can cut that toll. Support this effort by contributing to the American Cancer Society.

Roosevelt A Diminishing Figure

Twenty-three Democratic and two Republican Senators paid tribute to former President Franklin D. Roosevelt Wednesday on the tenth anniversary of his death. Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, majority leader, who once boasted that he was proud to be a waterboy for Roosevelt, led the tributes with the assertion that the late President was "the greatest man of our generation"; and, taking the defensive, added, "It is a real test of his greatness that even now there are those who feel compelled to descend into his grave to debate endlessly the questions of his time."

Johnson, a former ultra-New-Dealer, who was elected Senator by a handful of votes that included the solid vote of the corrupt Duval County political machine, since discredited and its leaders sent to the penitentiary, implies that any criticism of Roosevelt's regime is in the nature of ghoulism—digging up a dead President from a grave.

Yet Franklin D. Roosevelt's actions as President affected not only every American living today, but every one of our grandchildren; and countless millions of persons in foreign lands, sold into slavery by his utter lack of adherence to principle.

The fact that a President dies does not, in the least, excuse or mitigate his actions while living and occupying the highest elective office in the world. Nor can Sen. Johnson, the former waterboy, do anything whatever to stop the inexorable judgement that history will pass upon Roosevelt—his actions and his motivations, good and bad.

Already, in the light of a full decade since Roosevelt died, the shape of the future judgement of history is becoming apparent—and this might be summed up in seven words: He meant well, but he played hell.

With fuzzy benevolent motives, he mortgaged America to the hilt, and swapped away not only its material but also its great moral commitments abroad. He was putty in the hands of such men as Churchill and Stalin, and his grandiose vanity led him to believe in his role as an American messiah, when in bitter international horse-trading other nations were stripping the shirt off the back of the United States.

Here was a profound politician with a golden voice, whose lack of ordinary good business judgement was known even to his own family; a scion of wealth reared with a silver spoon in his mouth, not entrusted by his family with the handling of his own business affairs; looking upon America as an entailed estate, with him the administrator; a perfect sucker for such men as Harry Hopkins, the former $50 a week social welfare hack, who became his right-hand and mentor, and gave away more tax money than all prior federal administrations had appropriated since George Washington assumed the presidency. A soft touch for such pirates as Marshal Stalin. Clay in the hands of the hard-bitten Churchill. Vain, jealous, unpredictable, changing like a shuttlecock from day to day and hour to hour. And yet with a magic appeal to the people—an instinctive sense of talking down to them in a Harvard accent they adored.

Roosevelt is shrinking as an historical figure, very rapidly. A golden voice with a Harvard accent does not make a messiah; and his blunders as a statesman and American leader were so numerous and so great, in comparison to his achievements, that even Senators who eulogized him Wednesday must have talked with their tongues in their cheeks.

His greatest accomplishments were as governor of New York, and in his first two years as President, when he put through Congress some long overdue and badly needed legislation.

He was a man of tremendous personal magnetism, with a vast facility for making friends; and along with all of his faults and weaknesses exemplified some very fine traits of character. One of these was his successful fight against polio, that left him badly crippled but did not stop his career.

Between the extremes of super-greatness, as chorused in fading voices by his partisans, and of super-villany, as trumpeted by his political opponents, lies the man and the president, Roosevelt.

As the millstones of history grind, perhaps it will be said that he was neither great nor villanious—only a superbly clever politican with a golden voice, who in his passionate desire to be agreeable gave away American rights whenever an international conference could be arranged.

Women To Invade World's Oldest University

Al Azhar University in Cairo, Egypt, which lays claim to being the oldest in the world, has decided to establish a special college for women.

This venerable center of Islamic culture and religion has never before admitted women to its rosters.

A joint anouncement by the rector and the deans of the various faculties says that the radical step is being taken as a "reflection of the growing interest envinced by both secular and spiritual sections of Egypt in the education of Moslem women along lines that will fit them to take their place in modern Egyptian society on an equal footing with men."

Thus the cause of "equal rights for women" is being implemented in one of the world's most ancient lands, where a few decades ago no woman was permitted to go unveiled in a public place.

Egypt is following the example set by Turkey, where the emancipation of women has revolutionized social life and customs.

There will be a woman judge sharing the bench with her male colleague in deciding divorce cases, if a draft bill now being readied by the Turkish Ministry of Justice becomes law. It is believed this will facilitate the harmonious merging of differing viewpoints and promote decisions based on sound psychological as well as strictly legal grounds.

Four mobile trucks are touring Istanbul, Turkey, stopping at lunch-hour-congested curbsides to renew driving licenses for motorist who cannot conveniently make it to the regular Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

THESE DAYS

The Bandoeng Conference

From many standpoints the Bandoeng (Bandung) conference is one of the most important events to have occurred in recent years. It is the first time in human history that 30 nations of Asia and Africa meet for any purpose at all; they meet on this occasion to assert the equality of the pigmented people of the world with the so-called "white" peoples, the Western European and American.

Called by Burma, Ceylon, India, Indonesia and Pakistan, it is largely a creature of Nehru and an assertion of maturity by countries which were once part of the British Empire. The other 25 nations who will attend are: Afghanistan, Cambodia, Central African Federation, (Red) China, Egypt, Ethiopia, Gold Coast, Iran, Iraq, Japan, Jordan, Laos, Lebanon, Liberia, Libya, Nepal, Philippines, Saudi Arabia, Sudan, Syria, Thailand, Turkey, Vietnam (North), Vietnam (South), Yemen.

Of these Ethiopia, Iran, Iraq, Philippines, Thailand, Turkey, and Pakistan may be regarded as friendly to the United States. It is today impossible to include Japan in that list because Japan's position grows more precarious every day, particularly after our State Department would not permit Japan's foreign minister, Mamoru Shigemitsu, to strengthen his position by coming to the United States. Shigemitsu had, it is true, little to say that could not be said through ordinary diplomatic channels, but he needed "face" by a visit to the United States and that for some inexplicable reason was withheld from him. We may be forcing Japan into the arms of Red China.

One of the subjects to be discussed at Bandoeng is the position of Asia and Africa in relation to problems affecting national sovereignty, racialism and colonialism. This item must include the question of the successor sovereignty of China, whether it is Communist China or Nationalist China and therefore the whole problem of Formosa will be thoroughly ventilated. Red China will make the claim that the United States has restored colonialism in Asia by its Formosan policy. The Philippine delegate, Carlos Romulo, will undoubtedly defend the American position, but whether our few friends at the conference will be able to prevent a resolution against the United States is to be seen.

"In India, we are unanimous that Taiwan must be restored to China. Again and again our Prime Minister has opposed the outrageous farce of representation of the Chiang Kai-shek coterie in the United Nations. We have demanded resolutely that the Chinese People's Republic be granted its rightful place in the United Nations.

"We know well that the governments of the United States and Great Britain are breaking solemn obligations, freely entered into, when they prevent the restoration of Taiwan to the Chinese People's Republic. International agreements and declarations, signed by the President of the United States and the Prime Minister of Great Britain, are being shamelessly violated, and an effort is being made by these powers to appear as 'peacemakers,' preventing Chinese 'aggression' against poor little Chiang Kai-shek."

It is not true that the United States has broken any agreement with the Chinese People's Republic, with which it has no agreement. What Dr. Kitchlew refers to is the Cairo Declaration which was made jointly with Chiang Kai-shek. Nevertheless, men may believe what they choose and this Indian chooses to believe that the United States occupies Chinese territory, namely, Formosa. Dr. Kitchlew states further:

"Just as our fight for the end of the slavery of Goa is the fight of the whole world against colonialism and for freedom, so also is the fight for the liberation of Taiwan."

It is this position against the United States that Peking sought to strengthen by capturing the islands of Quemoy and Matsu prior to the meeting of the 30 nations at Bandoeng. Chou En-lai would then have been able to come into the conference as an all-conquering hero who defeated the United States twice and France once. Probably had he taken Quemoy and Matsu, Red China would be waging war for Formosa during the conference and Japan would be forced to fall into Chou's lap. Perhaps that is why Admiral Robert B. Carney thought that the Red Chinese could move about April 15. It was a logical date in view of the opening of the Bandoeng conference on April 18.

Trade Lobbies Step Up Pace As Senate Round Nears

WASHINGTON — In a last-minute spurt of lobbying and logrolling, pressure groups are working overtime to mold the fate of the reciprocal trade program.

With the Administration's bill to extend the reciprocal trade act seemingly stalled in the Senate Finance Committee, the measure' supporters are bucking a stepped-up drive of pamphlets, letters and personal contacts on the part of "protectionist" interests.

Immediate goals of this drive are to have major amendments tacked to the bill before it reaches the Senate floor, and to block U.S. participation in a proposed new world agency designed to police trade and tariff procedures among nations.

The Administration bill would extend the trade agreements law for three years and give the President some new powers to cut tariffs in return for concessions from foreign countries. The proposed Organization for Trade Cooperation was developed recently at Geneva by 34 nations which are members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. It would administer GATT, under which nations agree to forbid or minimize import quotas, export subsidies, internal taxes on foreign goods, and dumping. Congress probably will be asked to approve U. S. participation in OTC.

New Faces Among Supporters

Aided by some new personalities and groups, reciprocal trade supporters are making a big pitch for Congressional approval of OTC, and for trade extension without "crippling" changes. They argue, among other things, that failure to do this would touch off a "stampede" among other nations to erect protectionist barriers against U.S. goods.

The top strategy - coordinating organization for these forces — the Committee For a National Trade Policy — is busily issuing bulletins explaining GATT and OTC, sparking speeches and community action across the nation, and emphasizing to legislators the importance of reciprocal trade.

Other powerful groups are cooperating with CNTP in an expanded program of education and legislative pressure. The League of Women Voters (126,000 members) is conducting community trade surveys to determine the benefits of lower tariffs to local areas—and letting Congress know the results. League officials plan to sponsor a breakfast at which the trade problem will be discussed with Congressional leaders.

The American Farm Bureau Federation, with the aid of other farm-bloc members, is working to keep the President's trade program from being "hamstrung" by amendment. Its officials are cooperating with major labor groups, foreign trade interests, and business lobbies in wiring and contacting legislators.

There are new faces, too, among the program's backers, as pro-reciprocal-trade groups spring up in New Orleans, New York City, Philadelphia, and other large cities. One of the most active is the Committee on Foreign Trade Education.

Headed by Bernard A. Rittersporn, Jr., a 29-year-old public relations executive, the Committee is waging a vigorous campaign through the press, radio and television. Volunteer workers of the group are canvassing residential areas, urging support for the trade program. On March 23, Rittersporn and other Committee members — Most of them drawn from Young Republican and Young Democrat clubs — held a pro-reciprocal-trade rally in New York.

Biggest Drive Since '34?

These forces face what one Senator has termed the "biggest protectionist lobby drive since 1934." Industries which claim injury from imports — the most active currently are coal and oil, textiles, chemicals, wool and cattle, and dairy interests — are pressing a campaign aimed primarily at reducing the President's authority to lower tariffs and increasing the power of the Tariff Commission in this field.

One major part of this drive is an expansive lobby - educational program undertaken by the Trade Information Service of the American Tariff League. ATL officials are mailing pamphlets to key newsmen and opinion leaders and sponsoring full-page newspaper ads. They have planned a state-by-state campaign to arouse sentiment against the Administration trade bill. At a recent strategy meeting in New York, they discussed the possibility of issuing a series of books for schools and businessmen, to counter freer trade material.

Another key group, the Nation-Wide Committee of Industry, Agriculture and Labor on Import-Export Policy, is holding weekly meetings in Washington to devise plans to be followed when the trade bill gets out of committee. Officials of both ATL and NCIAL have been contacting key Senators.

The "protectionist" side boasts its own new faces — among them that of Clarence L. Dale, an oil businessmen who has formed the Committee for Constitutional Tariff to test the constitutionality of the Trade Agreements Act.

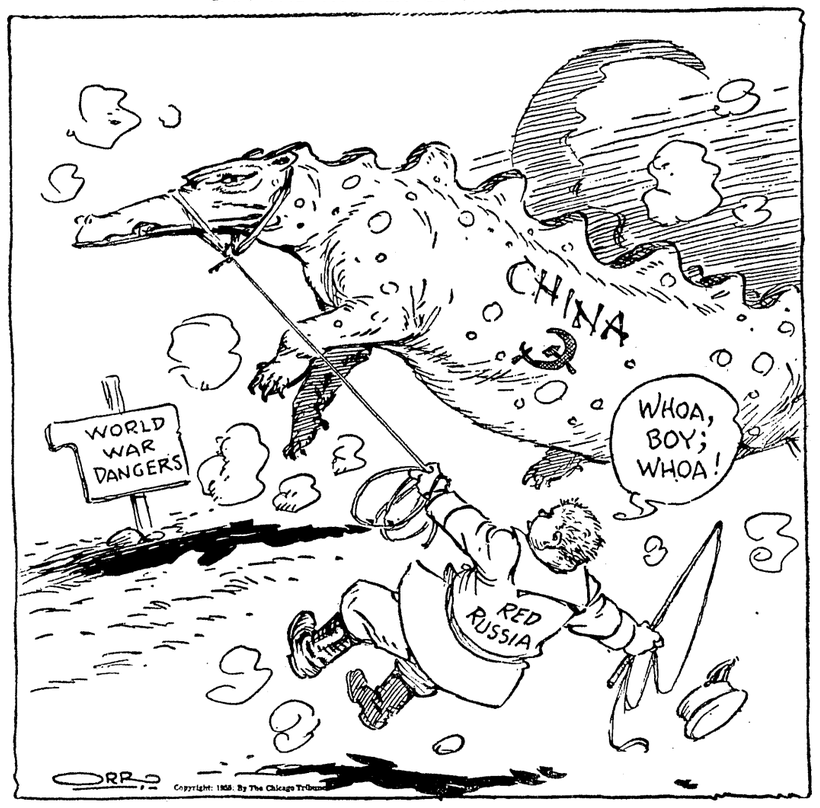

Says O. R. Strackbein, head of the Nation - Wide Committee: "What we're fighting instrinsically is the itch of bureaucrats to make over the world in the image of their own peculiar philosophy."

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

'I'm Through'

Dear Junior, Miss or Mister, Take a second breath before you make the world shaking announcement, "I'm through," when something goes wrong in your cosmos. There is, for instance, the day the teacher says, "Before you go to the Examination Hall for the finals change your clothes. This is a formal occasion and you must look right."

Or perhaps your father says in the voice that you have learned means business, "This is the last time you use the car this term. Jackson called me at the office today and said that you were going 60 on Main Street. That settles it. What's more, you'll get no more evenings out during school term. Mr. Doe has told me that you standing is falling. That's it."

Your first impulse may be to shout, "I'm through. I'm not going to that jailhouse again. I'll get a job, that's what I'll do. I'll show them." Take a second breath. Just remember that the school won't break down because you don't use it. But you will. The house and the family will still stand on its solid foundations, though you feel your wrath to be world shaking. Be calm, You may be wrong.

The school runs for you. Home and family were created for you. But they can get along without you if you insist. You cannot get along without them though. Ever hear of cutting off your nose to spite your face? That's it.

You worry the head of the school and your teachers. That makes you feel right peppy and smart? Maybe that minute but not tomorrow—and tomorrow always comes. You make your father and mother and brothers and sisters unhappy. That pleases you? You'll feel flat as a flounder tomorrow.

Whenever you feel wrath rising because you are being disciplined take a second breath and count ten, even a hundred, and then hold your tongue. You are being trained for a successful career. You are being strengthened by the support of your home people because you are not yet strong enough to go alone. That hurt you any?

You are intelligent boys and girls. Then consider. Why would a teacher or a parent want to make your life miserable? Their mission in life is to help you. Yours to accept that help and say "Thank you."

You're through? And where do you go from there? Don't be silly. Use your head and take that second breath.

Obedience is one of the most important steps in child training. Dr. Patri tells how obedience makes life easier for both the child and the parent in booklet No. 301, "Obedience," which explains how to start this training. CALL SCHOOL ELECTION

MORGAN CITY —UP— The St. Mary parish school board has called a $1,300,280 school bond election for May 17. The issue, to be voted on in the sixth and seventh wards, would provide more than a million dollars for school improvements and $185,000 for construction of a concrete stadium and cinder track.

OPPOSE PAY RAISE

SHREVEPORT —UP— The Caddo parish police jury has gone on record opposing an increase in salaries of police jurors to $150 a month proposed by St. Tammany juror Fred Mizell. In other action yesterday, the group also asked the state to build a new bridge over Cross Bayou.

IN WASHINGTON

The Income Tax

Most Americans give themselves a pat on the back, consciously or subconsciously, when they mail that income tax payment. Though their expression may not indicate it, they know that they are paying annual dues to belong to the greatest society in the world today, the American nation.

Yet the income tax is regarded by many as the republic's greatest problem, may prove a great threat to its future, and has done much to threaten our financial stability, depending on which economic viewpoint you are listening to.

The problem at the moment is that of the Republican administration which must decide next year whether it will propose an income tax reduction as a political gesture, even though it throws the budget considerably out of balance, how large the cut could be, without raising a threat of inflation, is now under survey.

The income tax is the easiest of all taxes to collect, hence has mounted to astronomical figures in the last quarter century. Before that time rates were low and tax collections usually showed a whopping surplus.

A quarter century ago, with the country feeling the first effects of depression, the total income collection was $2,428,228,000 and decreasing at the rate of more than half a billion a year. Tax collection this month will run more than 20 times that amount, according to present estimates. National income 25 years ago was around 80 billions. Corresponding income this year will exceed 300 billions, which will be less than four times the national income of 1930.

No financial genius is necessary to note that taxes have increased five times as rapidly as national income. Even that does not present the complete picture. The revenue act of 1928 provided normal rates of 1½ to 5 per cent, beginning at $4,000 and surtaxes from 1 to 20 per cent beginning at $10,500. The 20 per cent rate applied only over $100,000.

Now the base rate is 20 per cent, runs as high as 94 per cent on large incomes. U. S. income tax rates in general are the highest in the world.

Unquestionably it is a tribute to the people of the United States that they bear their tax burden with so little complaint, and have done it so long. The complaint seems to have centered not among the small taxpayers but among those in the higher brackets who have sought a constitutional amendment limiting federal income taxes to 25 per cent. That proposal has been stymied, at least for the time being, as state legislatures hestitate to pass on it favorably. Two years ago, its passage seemed likely. It may gain fresh impetus.

However, that amendment constitutes at least a temporary threat to the country's financial stability, since the tremendous budget cuts which it would require could leave gaps in our economy and cause a business recession. Most government specialists now regret that the 25 per cent limit was not imposed when the amendment passed congress in 1909 — it did not become effective until 1913 — but the ease with which a rich nation can be compelled to sweat taxes was not then foreseen.

Every taxpayer thinks of the day when his income will be as great or larger and his taxes appreciably lower. Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey, recognized as one of the best of a long line of treasury chiefs, has said that no man can predict in view of the present grim world outlook, how long that might be. Other forecasters add the ominous word "if ever."

There is a possibility however, that the administration may O. K. a minor tax cut next year. Republicans privately concede it cannot go much above the $20 which the Democrats sought unsuccessfully to include in the 1955 tax bill. But the prospect is that both parties will support the proposal even thought it widens the deficit by several billion dollars and means a further increase in the national debt.

Facts Worth Knowing

Average cost of toll road construction in the United States is a million dollars a mile.

Experts estimate that about a fifth of all food planted by man is destroyed by diseases and insect pests before it reaches the table.

Israel reports that 40,000 tourists, including 14,000 Americans visited that country in 1954.

Scientists have discovered there have been changes in ocean temperatures off the U. S. west coast in the past century large enough to change the kinds of fish that are found near various ports.

Scientists believe that the first villages were set up in what is now Iraq about 7,000 years ago.

RIPLEY'S — Believe It Or Not!

Worry Clinic

By Dr. George W. Crane

Matilda's strange type of fear is shared by millions of wives. So study her case carefully. Better paste it in your scrapbook for future reading. It, too, is a symbolic fear, based on a false sex notion, so be sure you understand the true facts given below.

Case O-306: Matilda Q., aged 44, offers a typical set of symptoms of her age group.

"Dr. Crane, I feel that I am growing peculiar," she confessed, and began to cry.

"My husband says I'll end in a mental institution at the rate I am going.

"For I can't bear to have him out of my sight. And I dare not leave the house alone, even to do my shopping at the corner grocery.

"So I must wait for him to come home and go to the store with me. This is getting on his nerves, but, Dr. Crane, I can't help it.

"I get nervous and so panicky I feel I'll die if I don't have hold of his arm whenever I go outdoors. Am I really losing my mind?"

Menopausal Complex

No, Matilda is not losing her mind, but she is showing a typical symptom of the menopause.

It develops in millions of women who believe the old-fashioned but false idea that a woman is on the shelf and no longer physically attractive to her husband when she reaches the menopause.

"If I can no longer be appealing to him," such a wife subconsciously reasons to herself, "then he may desert me and seek some other woman. That will leave me all alone and unwanted!"

Now the curious part about this kind of mental process is the fact that millions of women go through it, yet will never confess it to their husbands or even consciously acknowledge it themselves.

Yet they will then formulate their future behavior exactly on the basis of this idea, which they accept as absolutely true.

Fear Of Being Alone

Matilda's excessive dread of being alone is thus a symbolic fear of a far more - deep seated problem.

For Matilda had been alone many times during the 25 years of her marriage without being upset.

For example, she wasn't seriously disturbed by being alone when she was 25 or 35. But now that she is 44, and in the menopause, she suddenly goes almost berserk if her husband isn't with her at all times after he is off duty from his off job.

That's why she must cling to his arm and insist that he walk with her even to the corner grocery.

So the cure for Matilda's common menopausal complex is not to argue or waste time unduly, dealing with the varieties of her fears.

They all revert back to the fact she misunderstands the menopause and hence dreads she will be deserted for a younger woman.

Sex Facts at 45

So let's look at the facts, and you women approaching 40 should paste this Case Record in your scrapbooks.

The womb (uterus) of the female is not primarily a sex organ, anyway, and has scarcely any more effect on your marital charm than does your appendix.

Whether you lose your womb via a hysterectomy for fibroids at 25, or whether it stops its montly functioning at about 45 due to age, makes little difference on your sexual charm, unless you have the wrong idea about it.

You can still be sexually thrilling and thrillable as long as you live. There is no date line that terminates a woman's sexual charm in marriage.

Incidentally, neither is there such a terminal date line for men, though millions of husbands develop the "Ponce de Leon" complex at 45 or 50 because they, too, have been dreading lest their sex life be finished.

Send for my booklet "Menopausal Complexes of Men & Women," enclosing a stamped, return envelope, plus a dime. It cured Matilda.

Roosevelt A Diminishing Figure

Twenty-three Democratic and two Republican Senators paid tribute to former President Franklin D. Roosevelt Wednesday on the tenth anniversary of his death. Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, majority leader, who once boasted that he was proud to be a waterboy for Roosevelt, led the tributes with the assertion that the late President was "the greatest man of our generation"; and, taking the defensive, added, "It is a real test of his greatness that even now there are those who feel compelled to descend into his grave to debate endlessly the questions of his time."

Johnson, a former ultra-New-Dealer, who was elected Senator by a handful of votes that included the solid vote of the corrupt Duval County political machine, since discredited and its leaders sent to the penitentiary, implies that any criticism of Roosevelt's regime is in the nature of ghoulism—digging up a dead President from a grave.

Yet Franklin D. Roosevelt's actions as President affected not only every American living today, but every one of our grandchildren; and countless millions of persons in foreign lands, sold into slavery by his utter lack of adherence to principle.

The fact that a President dies does not, in the least, excuse or mitigate his actions while living and occupying the highest elective office in the world. Nor can Sen. Johnson, the former waterboy, do anything whatever to stop the inexorable judgement that history will pass upon Roosevelt—his actions and his motivations, good and bad.

Already, in the light of a full decade since Roosevelt died, the shape of the future judgement of history is becoming apparent—and this might be summed up in seven words: He meant well, but he played hell.

With fuzzy benevolent motives, he mortgaged America to the hilt, and swapped away not only its material but also its great moral commitments abroad. He was putty in the hands of such men as Churchill and Stalin, and his grandiose vanity led him to believe in his role as an American messiah, when in bitter international horse-trading other nations were stripping the shirt off the back of the United States.

Here was a profound politician with a golden voice, whose lack of ordinary good business judgement was known even to his own family; a scion of wealth reared with a silver spoon in his mouth, not entrusted by his family with the handling of his own business affairs; looking upon America as an entailed estate, with him the administrator; a perfect sucker for such men as Harry Hopkins, the former $50 a week social welfare hack, who became his right-hand and mentor, and gave away more tax money than all prior federal administrations had appropriated since George Washington assumed the presidency. A soft touch for such pirates as Marshal Stalin. Clay in the hands of the hard-bitten Churchill. Vain, jealous, unpredictable, changing like a shuttlecock from day to day and hour to hour. And yet with a magic appeal to the people—an instinctive sense of talking down to them in a Harvard accent they adored.

Roosevelt is shrinking as an historical figure, very rapidly. A golden voice with a Harvard accent does not make a messiah; and his blunders as a statesman and American leader were so numerous and so great, in comparison to his achievements, that even Senators who eulogized him Wednesday must have talked with their tongues in their cheeks.

His greatest accomplishments were as governor of New York, and in his first two years as President, when he put through Congress some long overdue and badly needed legislation.

He was a man of tremendous personal magnetism, with a vast facility for making friends; and along with all of his faults and weaknesses exemplified some very fine traits of character. One of these was his successful fight against polio, that left him badly crippled but did not stop his career.

Between the extremes of super-greatness, as chorused in fading voices by his partisans, and of super-villany, as trumpeted by his political opponents, lies the man and the president, Roosevelt.

As the millstones of history grind, perhaps it will be said that he was neither great nor villanious—only a superbly clever politican with a golden voice, who in his passionate desire to be agreeable gave away American rights whenever an international conference could be arranged.

Women To Invade World's Oldest University

Al Azhar University in Cairo, Egypt, which lays claim to being the oldest in the world, has decided to establish a special college for women.

This venerable center of Islamic culture and religion has never before admitted women to its rosters.

A joint anouncement by the rector and the deans of the various faculties says that the radical step is being taken as a "reflection of the growing interest envinced by both secular and spiritual sections of Egypt in the education of Moslem women along lines that will fit them to take their place in modern Egyptian society on an equal footing with men."

Thus the cause of "equal rights for women" is being implemented in one of the world's most ancient lands, where a few decades ago no woman was permitted to go unveiled in a public place.

Egypt is following the example set by Turkey, where the emancipation of women has revolutionized social life and customs.

There will be a woman judge sharing the bench with her male colleague in deciding divorce cases, if a draft bill now being readied by the Turkish Ministry of Justice becomes law. It is believed this will facilitate the harmonious merging of differing viewpoints and promote decisions based on sound psychological as well as strictly legal grounds.

Four mobile trucks are touring Istanbul, Turkey, stopping at lunch-hour-congested curbsides to renew driving licenses for motorist who cannot conveniently make it to the regular Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

THESE DAYS

The Bandoeng Conference

From many standpoints the Bandoeng (Bandung) conference is one of the most important events to have occurred in recent years. It is the first time in human history that 30 nations of Asia and Africa meet for any purpose at all; they meet on this occasion to assert the equality of the pigmented people of the world with the so-called "white" peoples, the Western European and American.

Called by Burma, Ceylon, India, Indonesia and Pakistan, it is largely a creature of Nehru and an assertion of maturity by countries which were once part of the British Empire. The other 25 nations who will attend are: Afghanistan, Cambodia, Central African Federation, (Red) China, Egypt, Ethiopia, Gold Coast, Iran, Iraq, Japan, Jordan, Laos, Lebanon, Liberia, Libya, Nepal, Philippines, Saudi Arabia, Sudan, Syria, Thailand, Turkey, Vietnam (North), Vietnam (South), Yemen.

Of these Ethiopia, Iran, Iraq, Philippines, Thailand, Turkey, and Pakistan may be regarded as friendly to the United States. It is today impossible to include Japan in that list because Japan's position grows more precarious every day, particularly after our State Department would not permit Japan's foreign minister, Mamoru Shigemitsu, to strengthen his position by coming to the United States. Shigemitsu had, it is true, little to say that could not be said through ordinary diplomatic channels, but he needed "face" by a visit to the United States and that for some inexplicable reason was withheld from him. We may be forcing Japan into the arms of Red China.

One of the subjects to be discussed at Bandoeng is the position of Asia and Africa in relation to problems affecting national sovereignty, racialism and colonialism. This item must include the question of the successor sovereignty of China, whether it is Communist China or Nationalist China and therefore the whole problem of Formosa will be thoroughly ventilated. Red China will make the claim that the United States has restored colonialism in Asia by its Formosan policy. The Philippine delegate, Carlos Romulo, will undoubtedly defend the American position, but whether our few friends at the conference will be able to prevent a resolution against the United States is to be seen.

"In India, we are unanimous that Taiwan must be restored to China. Again and again our Prime Minister has opposed the outrageous farce of representation of the Chiang Kai-shek coterie in the United Nations. We have demanded resolutely that the Chinese People's Republic be granted its rightful place in the United Nations.

"We know well that the governments of the United States and Great Britain are breaking solemn obligations, freely entered into, when they prevent the restoration of Taiwan to the Chinese People's Republic. International agreements and declarations, signed by the President of the United States and the Prime Minister of Great Britain, are being shamelessly violated, and an effort is being made by these powers to appear as 'peacemakers,' preventing Chinese 'aggression' against poor little Chiang Kai-shek."

It is not true that the United States has broken any agreement with the Chinese People's Republic, with which it has no agreement. What Dr. Kitchlew refers to is the Cairo Declaration which was made jointly with Chiang Kai-shek. Nevertheless, men may believe what they choose and this Indian chooses to believe that the United States occupies Chinese territory, namely, Formosa. Dr. Kitchlew states further:

"Just as our fight for the end of the slavery of Goa is the fight of the whole world against colonialism and for freedom, so also is the fight for the liberation of Taiwan."

It is this position against the United States that Peking sought to strengthen by capturing the islands of Quemoy and Matsu prior to the meeting of the 30 nations at Bandoeng. Chou En-lai would then have been able to come into the conference as an all-conquering hero who defeated the United States twice and France once. Probably had he taken Quemoy and Matsu, Red China would be waging war for Formosa during the conference and Japan would be forced to fall into Chou's lap. Perhaps that is why Admiral Robert B. Carney thought that the Red Chinese could move about April 15. It was a logical date in view of the opening of the Bandoeng conference on April 18.

WASHINGTON — In a last-minute spurt of lobbying and logrolling, pressure groups are working overtime to mold the fate of the reciprocal trade program.

With the Administration's bill to extend the reciprocal trade act seemingly stalled in the Senate Finance Committee, the measure' supporters are bucking a stepped-up drive of pamphlets, letters and personal contacts on the part of "protectionist" interests.

Immediate goals of this drive are to have major amendments tacked to the bill before it reaches the Senate floor, and to block U.S. participation in a proposed new world agency designed to police trade and tariff procedures among nations.

The Administration bill would extend the trade agreements law for three years and give the President some new powers to cut tariffs in return for concessions from foreign countries. The proposed Organization for Trade Cooperation was developed recently at Geneva by 34 nations which are members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. It would administer GATT, under which nations agree to forbid or minimize import quotas, export subsidies, internal taxes on foreign goods, and dumping. Congress probably will be asked to approve U. S. participation in OTC.

New Faces Among Supporters

Aided by some new personalities and groups, reciprocal trade supporters are making a big pitch for Congressional approval of OTC, and for trade extension without "crippling" changes. They argue, among other things, that failure to do this would touch off a "stampede" among other nations to erect protectionist barriers against U.S. goods.

The top strategy - coordinating organization for these forces — the Committee For a National Trade Policy — is busily issuing bulletins explaining GATT and OTC, sparking speeches and community action across the nation, and emphasizing to legislators the importance of reciprocal trade.

Other powerful groups are cooperating with CNTP in an expanded program of education and legislative pressure. The League of Women Voters (126,000 members) is conducting community trade surveys to determine the benefits of lower tariffs to local areas—and letting Congress know the results. League officials plan to sponsor a breakfast at which the trade problem will be discussed with Congressional leaders.

The American Farm Bureau Federation, with the aid of other farm-bloc members, is working to keep the President's trade program from being "hamstrung" by amendment. Its officials are cooperating with major labor groups, foreign trade interests, and business lobbies in wiring and contacting legislators.

There are new faces, too, among the program's backers, as pro-reciprocal-trade groups spring up in New Orleans, New York City, Philadelphia, and other large cities. One of the most active is the Committee on Foreign Trade Education.

Headed by Bernard A. Rittersporn, Jr., a 29-year-old public relations executive, the Committee is waging a vigorous campaign through the press, radio and television. Volunteer workers of the group are canvassing residential areas, urging support for the trade program. On March 23, Rittersporn and other Committee members — Most of them drawn from Young Republican and Young Democrat clubs — held a pro-reciprocal-trade rally in New York.

Biggest Drive Since '34?

These forces face what one Senator has termed the "biggest protectionist lobby drive since 1934." Industries which claim injury from imports — the most active currently are coal and oil, textiles, chemicals, wool and cattle, and dairy interests — are pressing a campaign aimed primarily at reducing the President's authority to lower tariffs and increasing the power of the Tariff Commission in this field.

One major part of this drive is an expansive lobby - educational program undertaken by the Trade Information Service of the American Tariff League. ATL officials are mailing pamphlets to key newsmen and opinion leaders and sponsoring full-page newspaper ads. They have planned a state-by-state campaign to arouse sentiment against the Administration trade bill. At a recent strategy meeting in New York, they discussed the possibility of issuing a series of books for schools and businessmen, to counter freer trade material.

Another key group, the Nation-Wide Committee of Industry, Agriculture and Labor on Import-Export Policy, is holding weekly meetings in Washington to devise plans to be followed when the trade bill gets out of committee. Officials of both ATL and NCIAL have been contacting key Senators.

The "protectionist" side boasts its own new faces — among them that of Clarence L. Dale, an oil businessmen who has formed the Committee for Constitutional Tariff to test the constitutionality of the Trade Agreements Act.

Says O. R. Strackbein, head of the Nation - Wide Committee: "What we're fighting instrinsically is the itch of bureaucrats to make over the world in the image of their own peculiar philosophy."

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

'I'm Through'

Or perhaps your father says in the voice that you have learned means business, "This is the last time you use the car this term. Jackson called me at the office today and said that you were going 60 on Main Street. That settles it. What's more, you'll get no more evenings out during school term. Mr. Doe has told me that you standing is falling. That's it."

Your first impulse may be to shout, "I'm through. I'm not going to that jailhouse again. I'll get a job, that's what I'll do. I'll show them." Take a second breath. Just remember that the school won't break down because you don't use it. But you will. The house and the family will still stand on its solid foundations, though you feel your wrath to be world shaking. Be calm, You may be wrong.

The school runs for you. Home and family were created for you. But they can get along without you if you insist. You cannot get along without them though. Ever hear of cutting off your nose to spite your face? That's it.

You worry the head of the school and your teachers. That makes you feel right peppy and smart? Maybe that minute but not tomorrow—and tomorrow always comes. You make your father and mother and brothers and sisters unhappy. That pleases you? You'll feel flat as a flounder tomorrow.

Whenever you feel wrath rising because you are being disciplined take a second breath and count ten, even a hundred, and then hold your tongue. You are being trained for a successful career. You are being strengthened by the support of your home people because you are not yet strong enough to go alone. That hurt you any?

You are intelligent boys and girls. Then consider. Why would a teacher or a parent want to make your life miserable? Their mission in life is to help you. Yours to accept that help and say "Thank you."

You're through? And where do you go from there? Don't be silly. Use your head and take that second breath.

Obedience is one of the most important steps in child training. Dr. Patri tells how obedience makes life easier for both the child and the parent in booklet No. 301, "Obedience," which explains how to start this training. CALL SCHOOL ELECTION

MORGAN CITY —UP— The St. Mary parish school board has called a $1,300,280 school bond election for May 17. The issue, to be voted on in the sixth and seventh wards, would provide more than a million dollars for school improvements and $185,000 for construction of a concrete stadium and cinder track.

OPPOSE PAY RAISE

SHREVEPORT —UP— The Caddo parish police jury has gone on record opposing an increase in salaries of police jurors to $150 a month proposed by St. Tammany juror Fred Mizell. In other action yesterday, the group also asked the state to build a new bridge over Cross Bayou.

IN WASHINGTON

The Income Tax

Most Americans give themselves a pat on the back, consciously or subconsciously, when they mail that income tax payment. Though their expression may not indicate it, they know that they are paying annual dues to belong to the greatest society in the world today, the American nation.

Yet the income tax is regarded by many as the republic's greatest problem, may prove a great threat to its future, and has done much to threaten our financial stability, depending on which economic viewpoint you are listening to.

The problem at the moment is that of the Republican administration which must decide next year whether it will propose an income tax reduction as a political gesture, even though it throws the budget considerably out of balance, how large the cut could be, without raising a threat of inflation, is now under survey.

The income tax is the easiest of all taxes to collect, hence has mounted to astronomical figures in the last quarter century. Before that time rates were low and tax collections usually showed a whopping surplus.

A quarter century ago, with the country feeling the first effects of depression, the total income collection was $2,428,228,000 and decreasing at the rate of more than half a billion a year. Tax collection this month will run more than 20 times that amount, according to present estimates. National income 25 years ago was around 80 billions. Corresponding income this year will exceed 300 billions, which will be less than four times the national income of 1930.

No financial genius is necessary to note that taxes have increased five times as rapidly as national income. Even that does not present the complete picture. The revenue act of 1928 provided normal rates of 1½ to 5 per cent, beginning at $4,000 and surtaxes from 1 to 20 per cent beginning at $10,500. The 20 per cent rate applied only over $100,000.

Now the base rate is 20 per cent, runs as high as 94 per cent on large incomes. U. S. income tax rates in general are the highest in the world.

Unquestionably it is a tribute to the people of the United States that they bear their tax burden with so little complaint, and have done it so long. The complaint seems to have centered not among the small taxpayers but among those in the higher brackets who have sought a constitutional amendment limiting federal income taxes to 25 per cent. That proposal has been stymied, at least for the time being, as state legislatures hestitate to pass on it favorably. Two years ago, its passage seemed likely. It may gain fresh impetus.

However, that amendment constitutes at least a temporary threat to the country's financial stability, since the tremendous budget cuts which it would require could leave gaps in our economy and cause a business recession. Most government specialists now regret that the 25 per cent limit was not imposed when the amendment passed congress in 1909 — it did not become effective until 1913 — but the ease with which a rich nation can be compelled to sweat taxes was not then foreseen.

Every taxpayer thinks of the day when his income will be as great or larger and his taxes appreciably lower. Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey, recognized as one of the best of a long line of treasury chiefs, has said that no man can predict in view of the present grim world outlook, how long that might be. But if you still feel young, you'll be going swimming this summer. These days the eagerness with which a woman goes swimming is more likely a gauge of what her figure looks like than of her age.

If you are looking forward to fun on the beach or at the pool, you'll want to lose those extra pounds. You can with the Nine-Day Reducing diet. Here are menus from which you may plan today's marketing list.

Foster Mother

Reader Lists Rewards Of Aiding Needy Children

By DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX: Some time ago you had a letter from a woman who wanted to take foster children into her home but was deterred by neighbors, who complained that she didn't have enough room. Well, I have known very successful foster mothers who had no backyards at all. They lived in attached homes where outdoor space was sadly limited. However, the great need of these children is not for space in a garden as much as for room in a heart.

I have been a foster mother for many years, loving every minute of it. Fortunately, I have a large yard. We have two children of our own and I have cared for 12 infants during the past few years. At present I have two babies with me. My husband loves these children too, and the whole family accepts them as part of us. It's hard to lose the children, but it is a wonderful thing to look back and realize that I have helped them through a difficult part of their lives.

Foster homes are always needed, and anyone who wants to take these children can contact the Children's Aid Society, or the Foster Home Placement Bureau of her church. Many women would feel better themselves and would enrich their own families by helping these children.

Mrs. K.G.

ANSWER: This letter surely speaks for itself in behalf of a wonderful work. Many childless homes could take in one or two youngsters whose families are temporarily unable to keep them. Foster children are easier to obtain than adopted ones, and having a foster child could fill in the time if one is waiting for a youngster for adoption.

YOUR OWN CHILDREN BENEFIT

Nothing will so well teach your own children selflessness as having a strange baby in the home. The whole family unites in showering love on the little stranger. While foster children should not be taken as a solution to one's own domestic troubles, they certainly will ease many a tense situation once they become part of the family.

The basic reason for becoming foster parents should be a desire to help the needy child; all other benefits will follow automatically. If you have any space in your home, do consider becoming a foster mother.

DEAR MISS DIX: My best girl friend goes with a boy I like very much. I can't stand going on a double date with them. All my friends think I should go to dances they attend, but I can't even do that. F.W.

ANSWER: You are old enough, even at 16, to know something of property rights. Since your friend and the boy go steady, and seem quite content with each other, you would be guilty of infringing on another's rights if you tried to grab her beau.

Always try putting yourself in someone else's place when faced with a dilemma of this kind. You wouldn't like it if covetous eyes were cast on your property.

Also remember, if you can take a man from another girl, he can be won from you with equal ease. Better get on to the dances and find a man of your own.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am engaged to a man who works about 200 miles away, so I see him very seldom. I get very lonesome, especially on week ends; would there be any harm in going out with other boys? Also, my fiance used to drink quite a bit. He says he has given it up. How can I be sure, and is there a possibility that he'll begin again when we're married?

Sunny

ANSWER: In a nutshell, you're slightly fed up with being engaged to an absentee fiance. I certainly can make no guarantee about his drinking habits, but since you have so much doubt about the whole affair, I would advise a cancellation of engagement. Better now than later.

Write DOROTHY DIX for free leaflet D-9, "Philandering." In all cases, be sure to enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope and send request to her, care of this newspaper, 229 West 43rd St., Room 706, New York 36, N.Y.

Why Grow Old?

9-Day Diet Will Help You 'Get In Shape' For Beach

Life has a way of passing so swiftly that we sometimes are startled when we suddenly realize that we have a son or daughter of a certain age, or that we have been married a certain number of years.

We may feel like Spring — or even look a little like it — but these sudden signs serve to dramatize the passing years.

But if you still feel young, you'll be going swimming this summer. These days the eagerness with which a woman goes swimming is more likely a gauge of what her figure looks like than of her age.

If you are looking forward to fun on the beach or at the pool, you'll want to lose those extra pounds. You can with the Nine-Day Reducing diet. Here are menus from which you may plan today's marketing list.

Sunday, April 17
(Sixth Day)

Serving of baked or broiled chicken
Celery
Olives (only two or three)

Ruston Civic Clubs Hold Grambling Fellowship

By YVONNE HERRON
(STATE EDITOR)

GRAMBLING, April 15— Rev. Ernest T. Campbell, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, York, Penn., told guests at the tenth annual fellowship luncheon at Grambling College today "we are living in dark and onimous days and the time has come to put away cliches and to think clearly."

Rev. Campbell replaced Dr. Louis Evans, listed as one of the ten outstanding ministers in the U. S., on the annual program. Dr. Evans has been in Scotland with Dr. Billy Graham and was scheduled to arrive in Ruston late Friday.

Sponsored jointly by the Ruston Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions Clubs the annual event was attended by more than 400 visitors including state officials, school superintendents, ministers from a large number of denominations and other interested parties.

The official program bore a quotation cited by Winston Churchill to classify the importance of the fellowship luncheon. The quotation read as follows: "The day may dawn when fair play, love for one's fellow men, respect for justice and freedom, will enable tormented generations to march forth serene and triumphant from the hideous epoch in which we have to dwell. Meanwhile, never flinch, never weary and never despair."

Rev. Campbell centered his speech around the slogan's and cliches which have become household words to the American public. As an example he cited the slogan: "It doesn't matter what a man believe as long as he does what is right." The Pennsylvania minister explained "what you do and what you believe are one in a whole." It matters very much what a man believes, Campbell said, for out of the convictions of a man's heart comes his actions.

The second cliche quoted by Rev. Campbell was "When in Rome do as the Romans do." By the influence of this cliche the average American has derived adaptability, Rev. Campbell said, and the average individual is not being true to any one standard.

Ralph W. Jones, president of Grambling College, acted as master of ceremonies for the event. The Grambling choir, under the direction of L. L. Lusk, sang during the lunch hour.

Ruston Mayor T. C. Beasley, president of the Ruston Rotary Club, acted as presiding officer. Bishop Charles P. Greco, of Alexandria, gave the invocation, and Rabbi F. K. Hirsch, Temple B'Nai Israel, Monroe, rendered the benediction.

In addressing the assembled group President Jones said "I hope that Grambling College will always be a landmark of good feeling, good will with deep and abiding Christian feeling."

NATIONAL SURVEY

Three Louisiana parishes, Lincoln, Claiborne, and St. Mary, will be included in a national survey to be conducted by the USDA to learn what foods families are eating in 1955. The survey, to include approximately 6,000 households in 42 states, will be made by the Department by National Analysts, Inc., a private marketing research firm working under contract with the department.

No Surplus Seen In School Funds

VIDALIA, April 15 —(Special)— For the first time in more than 10 years the Concordia Parish School Board will end its fiscal year without a surplus, Jesse S. Burris, parish superintendent of education anounced today.

In addition, the general fund will have to borrow from four other funds to get enough money to complete the school year. An additional $15,000 loan was made recently, the first time in 12 years, to pay school salaries.

The total receipts for the 1954-55 year, plus the balance at the beginning of the year, amounted to $736,327, according to revised estimates of the general fund gudget issued this week. The total disbursements were listed at $744,243, making a deficit of $7,916.

The school board authorized the superintendent to borrow from four funds as follows to meet the deficit:

Adult educational fund $782; Veterans' Training program, $2,000 Monterey food preservation plant, $2,700, special Negro building fund, $2,724.

"It appears that we have expended over $53,000 balance brought over from the last school year," Burris said, "Ading to this an anticipated increase in operating expenses for the next year of $50,000 that approximately $10,000 more financing will be necessary to take care of next year's budget than was necessary at the beginning of the year.

"To offset a portion of his handicap, there will be accuring from a recently voted three mill maintenance tax, approximately $25,000. So there now appears that there will be from $50,000 to $75,000 in additional revenue to find somewhere for the next school year to place the schools on the same financial footing they were at the beginning of this second year."

THISTLE IN PASTURES

Thistle that commonly grows in pasture areas may be controlled by spot spraying the individual plants with a mixture of the low volatile ester of 2,4-D mixed at the rate of one pound or quart to 2½ gallons of kerosene or diesel to 20 gallons of water plus ¼ pound of Tide or Vel. This mixture should be applied to the leaves and especially the center part of the thistle before the seed stalks are 12 inches high. Warning: General overall spraying of the pasture area with this mixture will seriously injure and kill most of the desirable plants growing in pastures.

So there now appears that there will be from $50,000 to $75,000 in additional revenue to find somewhere for the next school year to place the schools on the same financial footing they were at the beginning of this second year."

THISTLE IN PASTURES

Thistle that commonly grows in pasture areas may be controlled by spot spraying the individual plants with a mixture of the low volatile ester of 2,4-D mixed at the rate of one pound or quart to 2½ gallons of kerosene or diesel to 20 gallons of water plus ¼ pound of Tide or Vel. This mixture should be applied to the leaves and especially the center part of the thistle before the seed stalks are 12 inches high. Warning: General overall spraying of the pasture area with this mixture will seriously injure and kill most of the desirable plants growing in pastures.

18th Annual Meet Of State Mayors Set For April 21

ALEXANDRIA, April 15 (Special) — Advance registration indicates the Louisiana Municipal Association's 18th annual convention in Alexandria April 21-23 will be the largest in history according to Mayor P. Armand Viator of New Iberia, LMA president.

"It will also be one of the most interesting," predicted Viator. A major issue to be discussed by representatives of more than 200 of the state's municipalities will be finance — how the cities can meet the growing burden of responsibility placed upon them.

Meeting concurrently will be the City Engineers and City Clerks Association.

The convention will feature discussions on every phase of municipal affairs and an exhibit of municipal equipment that is expected to be the largest in the history of any state association.

Principal speaker at the annual luncheon on Saturday, concluding day of the convention, will be Mayor Jimmie Arrington, Collins, Miss. publisher and humorist. The luncheon will also feature the announcement of the winner of the "Mayor of the Year" award.

Mayor Viator pointed out that almost every municipality in Louisiana is a member of the LMA and that they will be represented nearly 100 per cent at the convention.

Cattlemen Seek Deportation Of Last Charolais

LAFAYETTE, La., April 15 (AP)— The Louisiana Cattlemen's Assn. wants the last three Charolais cattle deported.

The association drafted a request yesterday calling for the controversial cattle to be returned to Mexico.

The three were separated from a smuggled herd that brought a three-year federal prison term for Alphe A. Broussard of Lafayette.

Agents for Broussard sent the original herd of 97, valued at more than $1,000,000, to El Fortin Ranch near Piedras Negras, Mexico in February.

Customs authorities ordered the remaining three animals deported some time ago, but the deadline for the deportation has been extended several times.

The animals are impounded on a ranch near Sulphur.

Protests over the rare cattle's presence in th United States arose because of fear of the dread hoof and mouth disease in Mexico, where they had been raised.

News From The Public Library

The circulation of books at the Ouachita Parish Public Library reached the highest figure of the year in the number of books circulated during the month of March. Patrons of the four branches of the library borrowed a total of 28,266 books during the month. This was the largest total circulation we have ever had in March and is the third highest in the history of te library. Last June there were more than 30,000 books circulated and last July an excess of 29,000. We hope to top those figures in the coming summer.

Probably one of the reasons for our increase in circulation is the fact that each week new books are added to the library collection. In March 275 new titles were added, bringing the total number of books in our collection to 42,012. Each week in this column you read about some of the new books, but not all of them can be mentioned because of lack of space. If you really want to know what your library has to offer you, pay a visit to one of the branches and chose a title which fits your needs.

Among the new titles added in the past week there are books to appeal to every reader. "Captain Cut-throat" by John Dickson Carr is a sort of historical mystery story and should appeal to readers who like both types. It's period is that of the Napoleonic wars and it is written with artistry and ability. "The Rogue and the Witch" is a romantic love story with its setting in New England at the time of the great witchcraft scare. It's characters are well drawn and it is the kind of book which contains much food for thought.

"Our Hearts are Restless" by Gladys Baker is a very unusual sort of story. It's setting is a sanitarium, high in the Swiss alps, for the treatment of nervous disorders. Here we meet people suffering from almost all of the ills of the present day. The central character is a woman of courage and good intentions and the conclusion of the book is most satisfactory. "The Black Prince" and other Stories" by Shirley Ann Grau is a most interesting collection of short stories by a young Southern writer.

"The Emerald Crown" by Theodora McCormick has its setting in tenth century Ireland. It is the story of Sionna, the daughter of the king and of the men who loved her. It is a fascinating panaroma of warriors, kings, priests, nuns, waiting women and nobles. Mrs. McCormick is an experienced and able writer and this book should be a wonderful reading experience.

"Something of Value" by Robert Ruark is a compelling and tremendous novel of Africa. The setting is Kenya, where the blacks and whites who once lived in peace, do so no longer. This is the current book of the month club book and will probably be widely read and discussed.

Readers of non-fiction will be interested to know that there are a number of new books available in that classification. "Reflections On the Failure of Socialism" by Max Eastman is a carefully written and persuasive argument against so cialism. It is a book for the thoughtful reader. "America's Rise to World Power" by John Foster Dulles, is an excellent discussion of our foreign relations since the year 1898. It is a book for the general reader as well as the student.

"Hawthorne" by Hyatt Waggoner is a critical study of the author and his works and will fill a long-felt need. "Gentlemen's Relish" by Christopher Morley is another of his delightful books of poetry, written with tenderness, discernment and spice.

"Truth is Stranger Than Fishin" by Beatrice Cook differs from her two previous books of personal narratives about fishing, for it is a history of famous fishermen through the ages. It is written with her usual wit and charm and will be widely read by those who like the sport of fishing.

Now for a purely practical book. It is "Keys to Modern Selling" by Ralph and Naomi Engelsman. This is a complete and practical manual on the art of selling. It is the fruit of many years of experience and it abounds in real-life examples. It is a book which will make even the most discouraged salesman take heart and go out to be a success.

Long Not Planning To Support Anyone

NEW ORLEANS, April 15 (AP)—Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La) said today his "present feeling" is that he will not support anyone in the 1956 race for governor.

But Long added:

"I may feel differently before the race is over."

Long announced yesterday he would not be a candidate himself.

After stating he would keep out of the campaign, Long offered his views today on what may be an important election issue — how to spend Louisiana oil money.

"I do not think the tidelands oil money should be dedicated to specific purposes," Long said. "I believe that whatever needs to be done with the money from this source.

"If money is needed for highways, it should be used for highways. Other monies are needed for schools and they should be provided."

Okla. Biblethon Reaches Psalms; End Seen Today

GARBER, Okla., April 15—UP—Readers in the Rev. Wilbur Nuckolls' "Biblethon" started the book of Psalms Friday. He expects a non-stop reading of the entire bible will be completed by 6 p.m. Saturday.

Members of the congregation at the First Baptist Church, where the Rev. Nuckolls is pastor, and volunteers, started reading the first verse of Genesis at 9 p.m. Wednesday. They haven't stopped reading since.

The Rev. Nuckolls said that when the readers — they change every 15 minutes — started the Psalms, they were halfway through the Bible. The reading also was slower than when it started.

"We have slowed down somewhat," Nuckolls said, "but only because people are really absorbing what they read instead of hurrying to get through."

Readers reached the book of Psalms at noon and Rev. Nuckolls said reading of the New Testament will begin Saturday morning.

"It will go much faster in the New Testament," he said.

Rev. Nuckolls said the New Testament probably could be finished in 12 hours, by 6 p.m. Saturday.

He said motorists passing through Garber have stopped at the small church to hear the readers.

"It has brought people closer to the church and themselves," he said. "It has caused them to think of higher things.

"It doesn't matter if the readers are along in the wee hours of the night, or before a large audience. They read not to the listeners, but for their own enjoyment and satisfaction."

Medics Here Back Drug Store Sale Of Salk Vaccine

A plan to handle sale of Salk polio vaccine through drug stores instead of having it dispensed by doctors, has been endorsed by the Ouachita Parish Medical Society.

The medical group in the endorsement announced yesterday, urged persons planning to use the vaccine to purchase it directly from drug stores and then take it to the physician of their choice for vaccinations.

Purpose of the plan, the medical group said, it to "prevent possible excessive charges or discrimination in the distribution of the vaccine on the part of physicians."

Children and pregnant women will be given priority in procurement of the first vaccine available for sale, it was stated.

"We expect to have all the vaccine we need for everyone within a year," the society members said.

According to the physicians, the vaccine may be purchased at local drug stores for a total price of about $6 when it arrives and the physicians will charge their regular price for office calls for the vaccinations.

Three shots of the vaccine are needed, they said, one to be given immediately, one to be given a month after the first one, and a booster shot in about seven months.

Truman Returns To Capital, Open Campaign

WASHINGTON, April 15 —UP— Former President Truman rolled into town chipper as ever Friday to see some old friends, check up on his bank credit and help open the 1956 Democratic presidential campaign Saturday night.

The man from Independence beamed with pleasure as he and Mrs. Truman were greeted by a big crowd upon their arrival at union station. He thanked those swarming around him for their "very, very nice, cordial reception."

"I would think you would get tired of me, but apparently you're not," he exclaimed.

Mr. Truman later told the Democratic national committee "the Democratic party has done everything for me that possibly can be done for an individual." He said anyone elected to the presidency "should be grateful for the rest of his life to the people who have given him that honor.

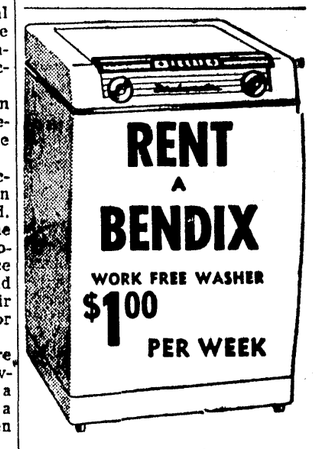

"If there is anything I can do to bring about a Democratic victory anytime, anywhere, any place, you can be sure I'll be there with bells on to help in any possible way I can—particularly in 1956," he said.

The former president, making his first visit here in nearly a year, refused to give any advance tips on the speech he will deliver Saturday night at a big testimonial dinner for Speaker Sam Rayburn. He advised reporters to "wait and see" whether it will be a "stem-winder."

It probably will be. The Rayburn testimonial is a replacement for the Jefferson-Jackson dinner which Democrats have staged here for years as a warm-up for the coming political campaigns. The guest list of 3,000 is a who's who of the party faithful.

At a meeting of the Democratic national committee shortly after Mr. Truman's arrival, party chairman Paul M. Butler declared the Democrats can win the White House next year even if President Eisenhower runs for re-election.

Tipping off Democratic campaign strategy, Butler told party leaders to "pin-point the mistakes and confusion of the present administration" directly on Mr. Eisenhower.

News From The Public Library

The circulation of books at the Ouachita Parish Public Library reached the highest figure of the year in the number of books circulated during the month of March. Patrons of the four branches of the library borrowed a total of 28,266 books during the month. This was the largest total circulation we have ever had in March and is the third highest in the history of te library. Last June there were more than 30,000 books circulated and last July an excess of 29,000. We hope to top those figures in the coming summer.

Probably one of the reasons for our increase in circulation is the fact that each week new books are added to the library collection. In March 275 new titles were added, bringing the total number of books in our collection to 42,012. Each week in this column you read about some of the new books, but not all of them can be mentioned because of lack of space. If you really want to know what your library has to offer you, pay a visit to one of the branches and chose a title which fits your needs.

Among the new titles added in the past week there are books to appeal to every reader. "Captain Cut-throat" by John Dickson Carr is a sort of historical mystery story and should appeal to readers who like both types. It's period is that of the Napoleonic wars and it is written with artistry and ability. "The Rogue and the Witch" is a romantic love story with its setting in New England at the time of the great witchcraft scare. It's characters are well drawn and it is the kind of book which contains much food for thought.

"Our Hearts are Restless" by Gladys Baker is a very unusual sort of story. It's setting is a sanitarium, high in the Swiss alps, for the treatment of nervous disorders. Here we meet people suffering from almost all of the ills of the present day. The central character is a woman of courage and good intentions and the conclusion of the book is most satisfactory. "The Black Prince" and other Stories" by Shirley Ann Grau is a most interesting collection of short stories by a young Southern writer.

"The Emerald Crown" by Theodora McCormick has its setting in tenth century Ireland. It is the story of Sionna, the daughter of the king and of the men who loved her. It is a fascinating panaroma of warriors, kings, priests, nuns, waiting women and nobles. Mrs. McCormick is an experienced and able writer and this book should be a wonderful reading experience.

"Something of Value" by Robert Ruark is a compelling and tremendous novel of Africa. The setting is Kenya, where the blacks and whites who once lived in peace, do so no longer. This is the current book of the month club book and will probably be widely read and discussed.

Readers of non-fiction will be interested to know that there are a number of new books available in that classification. "Reflections On the Failure of Socialism" by Max Eastman is a carefully written and persuasive argument against socialism. It is a book for the thoughtful reader. "America's Rise to World Power" by John Foster Dulles, is an excellent discussion of our foreign relations since the year 1898. It is a book for the general reader as well as the student.

"Hawthorne" by Hyatt Waggoner is a critical study of the author and his works and will fill a long-felt need. "Gentlemen's Relish" by Christopher Morley is another of his delightful books of poetry, written with tenderness, discernment and spice.

"Truth is Stranger Than Fishin" by Beatrice Cook differs from her two previous books of personal narratives about fishing, for it is a history of famous fishermen through the ages. It is written with her usual wit and charm and will be widely read by those who like the sport of fishing.

Now for a purely practical book. It is "Keys to Modern Selling" by Ralph and Naomi Engelsman. This is a complete and practical manual on the art of selling. It is the fruit of many years of experience and it abounds in real-life examples. It is a book which will make even the most discouraged salesman take heart and go out to be a success.

Long Not Planning To Support Anyone

NEW ORLEANS, April 15 (AP)—Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La) said today his "present feeling" is that he will not support anyone in the 1956 race for governor.

But Long added:

"I may feel differently before the race is over."

Long announced yesterday he would not be a candidate himself.

After stating he would keep out of the campaign, Long offered his views today on what may be an important election issue — how to spend Louisiana oil money.

"I do not think the tidelands oil money should be dedicated to specific purposes," Long said. "I believe that whatever needs to be done with the money from this source.

"If money is needed for highways, it should be used for highways. Other monies are needed for schools and they should be provided."

Okla. Biblethon Reaches Psalms; End Seen Today

GARBER, Okla., April 15—UP—Readers in the Rev. Wilbur Nuckolls' "Biblethon" started the book of Psalms Friday. He expects a non-stop reading of the entire bible will be completed by 6 p.m. Saturday.

Members of the congregation at the First Baptist Church, where the Rev. Nuckolls is pastor, and volunteers, started reading the first verse of Genesis at 9 p.m. Wednesday. They haven't stopped reading since.

The Rev. Nuckolls said that when the readers — they change every 15 minutes — started the Psalms, they were halfway through the Bible. The reading also was slower than when it started.

"We have slowed down somewhat," Nuckolls said, "but only because people are really absorbing what they read instead of hurrying to get through."

Readers reached the book of Psalms at noon and Rev. Nuckolls said reading of the New Testament will begin Saturday morning.

"It will go much faster in the New Testament," he said.

Rev. Nuckolls said the New Testament probably could be finished in 12 hours, by 6 p.m. Saturday.

He said motorists passing through Garber have stopped at the small church to hear the readers.

"It has brought people closer to the church and themselves," he said. "It has caused them to think of higher things.

"It doesn't matter if the readers are along in the wee hours of the night, or before a large audience. They read not to the listeners, but for their own enjoyment and satisfaction."

MALIK SICK IN BED

LONDON, April 15— UP — The Soviet embassy said Friday Ambassador Jacob Malik still was confined to bed under a doctor's care, but was showing improvement. Malik's illness forced a cancellation of Wednesday's scheduled meeting of the five-nations disarmament conference. He is known to suffer from a chronic heart ailment.

Stocks Set New Record Highs For Fourth Straight

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP)—Rails, motors, and steels were buoyant today as the stock market advanced to its fourth straight new record high.

There was ample support from the rest of the list for the advance. It was the market's eighth successive rise.

More than enough good news appeared to brace the plus signs. Commerce Secretary Weeks said 1955 might be the best business year the nation has ever seen.

The year got off to an excellent start toward the goal. The President's Council of Economic Advisers reported gross national product established a new first quarter high. The Bureau of Labor Statistics found first quarter housing starts a sew high. And the Federal Reserve Board reported industrial production in March at its best levels in two years.

The market had many gains of 1 and 2 points and some running on higher. Losses as a general rule were small.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up $1 at $164.80, its highest level. New peaks also were scored by the average's components. Industrials were up $1.40 at a record high of $222.50, rails were ahead $1.20 at a new high since 1929 of $134.30, and the utilities were up 30 cents at a new high since 1931 of $164.80.

There were 1,232 individual issues traded of which 636 advanced and 340 declined with 117 new highs and 8 new lows for the year registered.

Volume was the best of the month at 3,180,000 shares, that compares with 2,890,000 shares traded yesterday. Then the market was up slightly in a hesitant manner.

The bond market was higher. U.S. government issues in the over-the-counter market were higher.

Illinois Supreme Court Rules Ward Board Is Illegal

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 15 —UP— The Illinois Supreme Court Friday gave young financier Louis E. Wolfson a go-light to bid for control of the $721 million Montgomery Ward & Co. at a showdown stockholders' meeting next week.

The high court ruled invalid Ward's system of electing only three of its nine directors each year.

The decision meant that all nine directors will be up for election next Friday, giving Wolfson a chance to gain majority control and unseat 81-year-old board chairman Sewell L. Avery.

In New York, the jubilant, 43-year-old Wolfson hailed the decision as a "victory for corporate democracy" and confidently predicted he will win control of the huge mail order firm.

Wolfson said he has enough proxies to capture four directorships already and has a good chance to elect "five or six." He predicted that many Ward stockholders will now revoke their proxies to management and support his opposition slate.

Wolfson promptly sent out a new batch of proxies to the company's support in the light of the Supreme Court decision and telling them to return the proxies by next Friday.

However, Montgomery Ward President Edmund A. Krider said the court ruling "does not change the main issues" of the massive proxy fight. Krider said Wolfson has "no chance" to elect a majority of directors because of the proxy total already held by management.

The court ruling was the key factor in determining whether Wolfson had a chance to bid for control this year or would have to prolong his battle over several years.

The imminence of first notice day for May on April 25th continues to bring liquidation and transferring in that month. Differences continued to widen an old crop months showed declines of eight points while new crops were unchanged to five higher. Failure of the government to announce favorable action on the swap deal or reclassification of the certified stocks has helped depress the old crop months. Liverpool closed 3 to 6 English points lower, and differences as compared to New York widened slightly on the nearbys and narrowed a little in the distant months.

The New York cotton exchange has made a 150,000 bale downward adjustment in cotton exports. This adjustment results from a change in the variable factor used by the exchange to compute exports. Todays exports totaled 32,025 bales, bringing the total for the season now to 2,846,662 vs. 2,513,630 last year.

NYCE estimates consumption in the five week period Feb. 27 to April 2 at 885,000 bales vs. 721,000 in the preceding four week period and 844,000 in the five week period a year ago, daily rate 35,400 vs. 36,600 and 33,800 respectively. Based on this estimate, consumption for the season so far approximated 6,012,000 compared with 5,951,000 for the same period last year.

Unfixed call sales as of April 8 showed another decline, this time by 17,600 bales.

Illinois Supreme Court Rules Ward Board Is Illegal

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 15 — UP— The Illinois Supreme Court Friday gave young financier Louis E. Wolfson a go-light to bid for control of the $721 million Montgomery Ward & Co. at a showdown stockholders' meeting next week.

The high court ruled invalid Ward's system of electing only three of its nine directors each year.

The decision meant that all nine directors will be up for election next Friday, giving Wolfson a chance to gain majority control and unseat 81-year-old board chairman Sewell L. Avery.

In New York, the jubilant, 43-year-old Wolfson hailed the decision as a "victory for corporate democracy" and confidently predicted he will win control of the huge mail order firm.

Wolfson said he has enough proxies to capture four directorships already and has a good chance to elect "five or six." He predicted that many Ward stockholders will now revoke their proxies to management and support his opposition slate.

Wolfson promptly sent out a new batch of proxies to the company's support in the light of the Supreme Court decision and telling them to return the proxies by next Friday.

However, Montgomery Ward President Edmund A. Krider said the court ruling "does not change the main issues" of the massive proxy fight. Krider said Wolfson has "no chance" to elect a majority of directors because of the proxy total already held by management.

The court ruling was the key factor in determining whether Wolfson had a chance to bid for control this year or would have to prolong his battle over several years.

The imminence of first notice day for May on April 25th continues to bring liquidation and transferring in that month. Differences continued to widen an old crop months showed declines of eight points while new crops were unchanged to five higher. Failure of the government to announce favorable action on the swap deal or reclassification of the certified stocks has helped depress the old crop months. Liverpool closed 3 to 6 English points lower, and differences as compared to New York widened slightly on the nearbys and narrowed a little in the distant months.

The New York cotton exchange has made a 150,000 bale downward adjustment in cotton exports. This adjustment results from a change in the variable factor used by the exchange to compute exports. Todays exports totaled 32,025 bales, bringing the total for the season now to 2,846,662 vs. 2,513,630 last year.

NYCE estimates consumption in the five week period Feb. 27 to April 2 at 885,000 bales vs. 721,000 in the preceding four week period and 844,000 in the five week period a year ago, daily rate 35,400 vs. 36,600 and 33,800 respectively. Based on this estimate, consumption for the season so far approximated 6,012,000 compared with 5,951,000 for the same period last year.

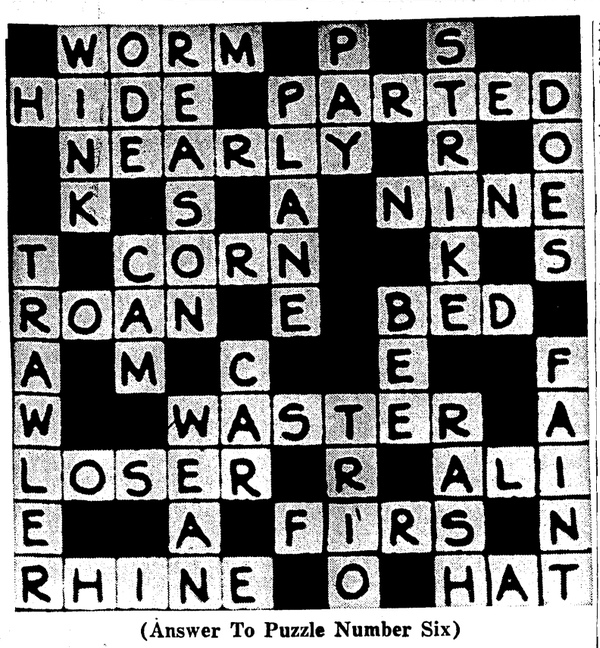

Unfixed call sales as of April 8 showed another decline, this time by 17,600 bales.

Puzzle Jackpot Jumps To $175; Still No Winners, Though Some Come Close

By BONANZA BILL

Morning World Crossword Puzzle Number Six—like the five preceeding ones—defied solution, as readers showered some 13,000 entries on the office force and Old Bonanza Bill, leaving the $150 jackpot untouched.

That means that the prize for puzzle number seven, which will be published in the Monday and Tuesday editions of the Morning World, will be $175.

Reports reaching here from some 100 daily newspapers across the nation which are carrying the same puzzle series, reveal that out of all that number only one reported a winner last week. So, in spite of the apparent simplicity of the puzzle, they're proving plenty tough.

However, here's something to think about, the one lucky contestant reported by a newspaper in another area, collected a jackpot of $650, which probably paid amply for all of the effort involved in finally getting the right set of answers worked out.

The contestants in the World's series are getting closer all of the time, since more of them are getting the initial set of key words which are checked in the preliminaries of sorting through the entries, but it'll take just a little more push to reach the "cabbage patch."

Rules, clues and a new puzzle will be coming up Monday and Tuesday, but to help bone up for the next hurdle, take a look at the explanation of the more difficult clues contained in this week's stickler:

Explanation of More Difficult Clues:

CLUES ACROSS:

6. HIDE is more apt. The clue specifies "in wartime". He may have to RIDE with care at ANY time. It is particularly under WAR conditions that he may possibly have to HIDE his machine. Inclusion of "his machine" also points to HIDE, as RIDE IMPLIES his machine.

7. PARTED certainly. Whether they resent being PATTED is very much a matter of circumstance and while many children do not fancy being "PATTED" the word "resent" is a little too strong.

9. Naturally he may be annoyed if called upon to change his shirt just when he has practically finished dressing, so NEARLY is quite to the point. Whether he is NEATLY or untidily dressed is comparatively irrelevant. Might he not be just as annoyed if "untidily" dressed?

10. NINE evening gowns would normally be regarded as an enviable number, while FINE is an unknown quantity and may be a modest two. With FINE, also, the wording is not natural; you would say she has "NINE" gowns or "SOME FINE" gowns to choose from.

12. CORN is correct. When a thing is actually of gold, it is CALLED gold ("gold watch" "gold COIN.", etc.,) That which reSEMBLES gold is called GOLDEN ("golden hair" "golden CORN", etc.,)

14. True of BED since the result will not be so good. In the case of BET of course it is unwise to make your selection too hurriedly but once having made your selection it doesn't matter how hurriedly but once having made your selection it doesn't matter how hurriedly you make the BET.

17. WASTER is preferred. The clue word "mere" does not fit WAITER who may well be a skilled man. A WASTER would be a great disappointment.

20. LOSER is more apt because he is thought more of AS A LOSER. (One speaks of "a good LOSER" or "a bad LOSER" according to his reactions in the face of failure.) When a LOVER accepts disappointment gracefully, that does not make him any better a LOVER, though he may be thought more of as a MAN.

22. The word "poet" suggests FIRS as the better answer. Beautiful AIRS are far more likely to inspire a MUSICIAN. A poet may know little about music.

CLUES DOWN:

1. WINK is apt, cince it is particularly a "young lady" who is the NATURAL TARGET of a WINK of the kind a prim person might disapprove of. The fact that a young lady is prim does not imply that she won't enjoy a glass of WINE.

4. PAY is more apt. The implication is that by being more careful you could have avoided losing it. This is true of PAY, but not necessarily of WAY, which even the most careful person could lose through fog or misdirection.

5. STRIKE is best. You expect all men to STRIVE for better conditions for themselves, not just "certain" men. It is only "certain" men, that is those in certain trades, etc., who STRIKE for better conditions.

7. PLANE is more direct. PLANS are a preliminary, and nothing disastrous can happen as a DIRECT result of a flaw in THEM; it is only after the product they represent is produced that the flaw becomes a danger. A flaw in a PLANE- the finished product, that is supposed to be airworthy - certainly could be disastrous. PLANT is not favored.

8. An actor's effect on his audience depends on how he DOES, which INCLUDES the death scene, if any. DOES, therefore, is more comprehensive. Strictly, of course, he DOES NOT DIE.

11. TRAWLER is the better answer. In the first place to involve a "fatality" some "person" must be in or on it; as a general rule a TRAILER does not ordinarily carry any persons. A TRAWLER does. Also one thinks of THINGS CAPABLE OF LOCOMOTION (cars, ships, etc.,) as being possibly "involved" in a collision. A TRAILER, by itself, is not a roadworthy vehicle, nor is it supposed to be occupied except when off the road. TRAWLER is clearly a sounder answer.

12. CAM is best. It is debatable whether a little CAR or a little CAB can do a big job which one must assume is the job a big CAR or big CAB can do. The work that a CAM does has no bearing on its size necessarily. A very small CAM in a precision machine can be doing a job of tremendous importance.

15. One maneuvers a CAR, or uses an OAR to maneuver BOAT. Even if we agree that one DOES maneuver an OAR, surely, for an oarsman, this is a simple process? A motorist, on the other hand, definitely has to maneuver his CAR CAREFULLY.

16. You may well expect FAINT mark to come off easily, and then find that it proves UNEXPECTEDLY difficult. Surely you don't expect a PAINT mark to be easy to remove?

18. The clue implies that more than one person is involved, favoring TRIO rather than TRIP, which may be solo.

HOPE TO STATION OBSERVERS

JERUSALEM —UP— United Nations officials said Thursday negotiations are being conducted with Egyptian authorities on stationing observers on the Egyptian side of the Gaza strip to reduce border incidents.

In the Ait Haddidu tribe in the Atlas mountains of Morocco, a woman can legally divorce her husband for 15 cents and some of the women have had as many as 20 husbands, says the National Geographic Society.

Peach Show To Go On Despite Freeze

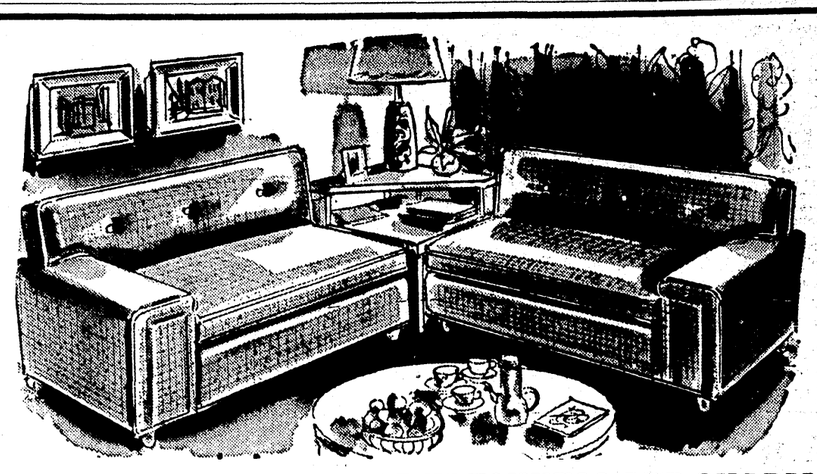

RUSTON, April 15 (Special)—Despite overwhelming losses to the crop inflicted by March freezes, the annual Louisiana Peach Festival will be held this year as Scheduled, A. K. Goff, festival president said here.

Money for the festival activities which are centered in Ruston at peach harvest time, was appropriated by the legislature, he said, before freezes nipped practically all of the peaches in Lincoln Parish and north central Louisiana.

Sports Protect Camp Mark, Drop McAlester, 4 To 2

Twin Cities Get Steady Hitting, Classy Pitching

HATTIESBURG, Miss., April 15 (Special) —Displaying excellent pitching and a steady batting attack, the Twin Cities Sports of Monroe-West Monroe, La., continued their unbeaten string of exhibitions in their training camp here by defeating McAlester, Okla., of the Sooner State League today, 4 to 2.

The game was the camp final for McAlester, which departs camp Saturday morning and heads for home to get ready for next Tuesday's Sooner State opener.

Manager Ed Head will send his Cotton States League Sports against the Bristol, Va.-Tenn., Twins of the Appalachian League in a Saturday afternoon exhibition.

The Sports battered McAlester pitching today for eleven hits while four Twin Cities hurlers were skimpy with a six-hitter.

The Sports played without outfielder Ray Mantle, who turned up with a slight ankle injury that may keep him idle a couple of days, but brother Roy Mantle came through with the day's longest hit, a triple.

Richie Windle, an outfielder who reported to the Sports only yesterday, doubled home two runs in the fourth inning to open the scoring yesterday, and the Sports bagged two more in the fifth on an error and an infield out by Rod Kanel.

"Chuck" Forbes, the lone holdover from the Sports' roster of '54 and Bob Maness, second baseman, led the Sports' attack with two singles apiece.

Skipper Head used Tom McLaughlin, Galen Hudspeth, Arnold Briggs and Malvern Murphy on the mound, and they may have had a shutout except for some fluke hitting in the ninth inning when McAlester got its only runs.

Six more players, sent down from New York Yankee Class A and B clubs at Binghampton, N.Y., Winston-Salem, N. C., and Quincy, Ill., reported to the Sports today. They were pitchers Ollphant, Kimball, Tardivo, and Junecko, infielder Rippill, and first baseman Gilbert.

Score by innings:

McAlester	000 000 002—2	6 2
TWIN CITIES	000 220 00x—4	11 1

Travis, Limbaugh (5), Brenek (7) and Carney; McLaughlin, Hudspeth (2), Briggs (4), Murphy (7) and Saatzer.

BEAUMONT, Tex., April 15 (AP)— San Antonio's Betty Jameson startled the rest of the field in the Babe Zaharias Golf Tournament Friday with an eight-under-par 65.

The honore of the tournament, th. Babe, found herself tied for fourth with 36-38—74.

Dodgers Send Chico Fernandez To Royals

BROOKLYN, April 15 (AP)— The Brooklyn baseball club today optioned shortstop Chico Fernandez to Montreal in the International League.

Cupit Fires 63 For New McGuire Course Record

Buster Cupit, the transplanted Texan who serves as club pro at McGuire Park Golf Club, West Monroe, stole the show yesterday at his pro-amateur "dog fight" tournament when he uncorked a blistering 18-hole round of 63 to set a new course record.

Cupit's nine-under-par round was the greatest ever fired over the West Monroe links in the nearly 25-year history of the course, bettering by one stroke the course mark he had held jointly with Lionel Hebert, the touring pro who works out of Erie, Pa. Hebert had posted his 64 in the Twin City Open Tournament two years ago, and Cupit has carded his previous 64 about the same time.

Yesterday the McGuire pro showed a string of ten birdies and went over par only once when he shot a five on the par four No. 9 hole. Holes birdied were one, two, four, seven, eight, ten, twelve, fourteen, fifteen, and sixteen.

The card:

Cupit out	434 434 325-32
Par out	544 534 434-36
Cupit in	444 423 334-31—63
Par in	545 434 434-36—72

Fifth players from clubs throughout this area turned out for the "dog fight" won by Leonard Warren, Bastrop pro, with a team of "Tot" Menuet and Claude Du Plissey. They won with a total of 81 points over their closest rivals, a combination of Cupit, Menuet, and John Allen.

League-leading Monroe Sand and Gravel No. 2 had some of the wind knocked out of its sails in a fumble scramble that saw M. S. and G. No. 1, the seventh place club, win three of four points from the front runners. Rynbrand's 167 game and Gibson's 441 series led No. 1. Best for No. 2 were Anderson's 188 game and downing's 478 series.

Southern Equipment, as a result of S. and G. No. 2's setback, pulled within three and a half points of the lead by tagging Standard Office Supply for three points as Bailey showed the way with a fine 235 game and a neat 547 series. Pifer was also in exceptional form for S. O. S. with 230-545.

C. S. C. Dixsol and Bucyrus-Erie swept three points apiece from Southwest Gas and Foremost Dairy respectively. Top keglers in the series were Thompson, 191-507, Dixsol; Smith, 194-524, Southwest Gas; Machnik, 177-495, B-E; Loftin, 180-457, Foremost.

Falstaff Beer came through with the only complete sweep of the night taking four points from G. S. C. Ammonia as the Beermen continued their climb in the league race. J. Paylor was the sparkplug of the Falstaff attack with 194-490. Sharp rolled a 160 high for Ammonia, and Smalley had a 437 high series.

Score Triumphs For Redskins In 1st Major Start

DETROIT, April 15 (AP)—Rookie Herb Score, Cleveland's "can't miss" kid, made his first major league start today and struck out nine batters and walked nine while pitching the Indians to a 7-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The 21-year-old left hander, flashing a tricky but erratic curve on a dark afternoon, allowed seven hits after surviving a shaky start in which he looked most young southpaws—wild.

But the slender Irishman, one of the most celebrated rookies to come into the American League in a long time, quickly settled down and turned in a poised performance.

Several of his strikeouts came at critical moments. On three occasions he fanned Fred Hatfield, Ferris Fain and Harvey Kuenn with two runners on base.

Giants Suffer 3rd Loss In Row; Dodgers Win, 6-3

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP) —The champion New York Giants were still without a victory today as the Brooklyn Dodgers handed them their third consecutive defeat, 6-3, behind the six-hit pitching of Billy Loes.

Duke Snider started the Giants downward with a 425 - foot home run which scored two teammates ahead of him in the fifth inning. Carl Furillo certified the defeat with a pair of four - baggers, his third and fourth of the young season. Furillo, a righthander, has hit all four of his homers off right-handed pitchers.

Snider's prodigious blow, his first of the campaign, snapped a 1-1 tie and actually sent the Giants reeling into the National League cellar, a berth they share with the Cincinnati Redlegs. Manager Leo Durocher threw in 20 players in a vain attempt to stave off the Giants' second straight loss to the Dodgers.

Brooklyn's victory, greeted with great glee by the Dodger faithful among the 17,894 spectators, was its third without a defeat and projected the Dodgers into a first place tie with the surprising Chicago Cubs.

Ruben Gomez, who whipped the Dodgers four times in five tries last year, was charged with the setback. The Puerto Rican screwball artist was stung for 10 hits and all but one of the Dodger runs before he was derricked for a fruitless pinch-hitter. George Spencer, John (Windy) McCall and Paul Giel finished with Spencer the victim of Furillo's second homer in the eighth.

Rebels Trounce Rams, 11-6

By TED HECKATHORN

The West Monroe High Rebels, inaugurating Legion Memorial Stadium for the '55 campaign, trounced the Bastrop Rams, 11-6, in a Triple A Conference tussle last night.

Wayne Hendricks went all the way for the Rebs, allowing but six hits, and fanning nine. The veteran prep righthander was off on his control, however, and four of the Ram tallies were direct results of bases on balls.

The Rebels, who play Neville at the stadium tonight, only collected six hits also, but starting and losing Bastrop hurler, J. W. "Red" Brodnax, gave them all up in his two and one-third inning stint, plus five walks, to be charged with all 11 runs and the defeat.

West Monroe bunched half their hits in the first frame, with Gary Huckaby, Robert Perkins and Richard Watson doing the damage. Perkins' blow was a double to center. The timely hits, along with three bases on balls, brought six runs.

In the third, the Rebs' attack produced five markers, and chased Brodnax form the hill. The payoff hit was a bases-loaded triple off the bat of Billy Joe Thompson, fololwing singles by Dennis Fields and Hendricks, and a walk to Mack Hunt. Perkins had previously tallied when he led off with a walk, stole second, and hustled home on a single.

No Rebel batsman collected more than one hit, while Bastrop relief turler, Terry Murray, off whom the Rebs failed to get a hit, garnered two for the losers, as did Brodnax.

Maroney Leads Lions To 10-8 Win Over LaSalle

By TED HECKATHORN

With Johnny Maroney driving in the payoff tallies, and taking the heart out of a LaSalle last - inning rally with a circus catch the Ouachita Lions came from behind to hand the visiting Tigers a 10-8 defeat yesterday afternoon at the West Monroe Playgrounds.

The Tigers tallied three runs in the first inning to the Lions' one, but in the bottom of the second, Ouachita,'s T. L. Fuller and H. B. Bennett drew walks. Maroney, with a count of three and two, smashed the next pitch into left, a blow so hard that the LaSalle left fielder wasn't able to field it cleanly, and both baserunners easily scored, with Johnny getting a double. He scored himself a moment later with the go-ahead run on Jackie DuPriest's sharp single to right.

The Lions accounted for two more in the sixth on a cluster of singles by Ike McMullen, Jeff Spence and Fuller, and a brace of LaSalle errors.

LaSalle collected two in the third, when Ouachita starter Bennett weakened and was relcived by Jimmy Hunt; but their big rally came in the final frame, when they scored three runs. A running, leaping, one-handed stab in the outfield by Maroney, off the bat of LaSalle pitcher John Carter; and a heads-up defensive play by Crowe to Ralph Ward at third cut the uprising short.

Crowe and Spence were the leading Lion stickmen, each with three hits in four trips; while Ken Winberry sparkled for the Tiger batsmen with four safeties, including a double, in as many trips.

Ruttman Will Handle Front-Drive Machine

INDIANAPOLIS, April 15 (AP)—Troy Ruttman of Houston, Tex., winner of the 1952 Indianapolis 500-mile race, was nominated today to pilot a front-drive Novi Special in the quarter-million-dollar speed event May 30.

One of the heaviest-footed drivers in American racing, the 250-pound Ruttman was fourth last year in a conventional rear-drive car.

Duke Nalon failed to qualify the Novi last year but Tony Bettenhausen unofficially broke the speedway record with it in a test run after the race. Lewis Welch of Novi, Mich., owns the car, one of a series of supercharged monsters, two of which carried veterans Chet Miller and Ralph Hepburn to their deaths in practice runs.

With the entry deadline at midnight tonight, the speedway had 59 entries and expected about 10 more by mail.

Sports Protect Camp Mark, Drop McAlester, 4 To 2

Twin Cities Get Steady Hitting, Classy Pitching

The game was the camp final for McAlester, which departs camp Saturday morning and heads for home to get ready for next Tuesday's Sooner State opener.

Manager Ed Head will send his Cotton States League Sports against the Bristol, Va. -Tenn., Twins of the Appalachian League in a Saturday afternoon exhibition.

The Sports played without outfielder Ray Mantle, who turned up with a slight ankle injury that may keep him idle a couple of days, but brother Roy Mantle came through with the day's longest hit, a triple.

Richie Windle, an outfielder who reported to the Sports only yesterday, doubled home two runs in the fourth inning to open the scoring yesterday, and the Sports bagged two more in the fifth on an error and an infield out by Rod Kanel.

Skipper Head used Tom McLaughlin, Galen Hudspeth, Arnold Briggs and Malvern Murphy on the mound, and they may have had a shutout except for some fluke hitting in the ninth inning when McAlester got its only runs.

Six more players, sent down from New York Yankee Class A and B clubs at Binghampton, N.Y., Winston-Salem, N. C., and Quincy, Ill., reported to the Sports today. They were pitchers Oliphant, Kimball, Tardivo, and Junecko, infielder Rippill, and first baseman Gilbert.

The honore of the tournament, the Babe, found herself tied for fourth with 36-38—74.

League-leading Monroe Sand and Gravel No. 2 had some of the wind knocked out of its sails in a family scramble that saw M. S. and G. No. 1, the seventh place club, win three of four points from the front runners. Rynbrand's 167 game and Gibson's 441 series led No. 1. Best for No. 2 were Anderson's 188 game and downing's 478 series.

Southern Equipment, as a result of S. and G. No. 2's setback, pulled within three and a half points of the lead by tagging Standard Office Supply for three points as Bailey showed the way with a fine 235 game and a neat 547 series. Pifer was also in exceptional form for S. O. S. with 230-545.

C. S. C. Dixsol and Bucyrus-Erie swept three points apiece from Southwest Gas and Foremost Dairy respectively. Top keglers in the series were Thompson, 191-507, Dixsol; Smith, 194-524, Southwest Gas; Machnik, 177-495, B-E; Loftin, 180-457, Foremost.

Falstaff Beer came through with the only complete sweep of the night taking four points from G. S. C. Ammonia as the Beermen continued their climb in the league race. J. Paylor was the sparkplug of the Falstaff attack with 194-490. Sharp rolled a 160 high for Ammonia, and Smalley had a 437 high series.

Score Triumphs For Redskins In 1st Major Start

DETROIT, April 15 (AP)—Rookie Herb Score, Cleveland's "can't miss" kid, made his first major league start today and struck out nine batters and walked nine while pitching the Indians to a 7-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The 21-year-old left hander, flashing a tricky but erratic curve on a dark afternoon, allowed seven hits after surviving a shaky start in which he looked most young southpaws—wild.

But the slender Irishman, one of the most celebrated rookies to come into the American League in a long time, quickly settled down and turned in a poised performance.

Several of his strikeouts came at critical moments. On three occasions he fanned Fred Hatfield, Ferris Fain and Harvey Kuenn with two runners on base.

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP) —The champion New York Giants were still without a victory today as the Brooklyn Dodgers handed them their third consecutive defeat, 6-3, behind the six-hit pitching of Billy Loes.

Duke Snider started the Giants downward with a 425 - foot home run which scored two teammates ahead of him in the fifth inning. Carl Furillo certified the defeat with a pair of four - baggers, his third and fourth of the young season. Furillo, a righthander, has hit all four of his homers off right-handed pitchers.

Snider's prodigious blow, his first of the campaign, snapped a 1-1 tie and actually sent the Giants reeling into the National League cellar, a berth they share with the Cincinnati Redlegs. Manager Leo Durocher threw in 20 players in a vain attempt to stave off the Giants' second straight loss to the Dodgers.

Brooklyn's victory, greeted with great glee by the Dodger faithful among the 17,894 spectators, was its third without a defeat and projected the Dodgers into a first place tie with the surprising Chicago Cubs.

Ruben Gomez, who whipped the Dodgers four times in five tries last year, was charged with the setback. The Puerto Rican screwball artist was stung for 10 hits and all but one of the Dodger runs before he was derricked for a fruitless pinch-hitter. George Spencer, John (Windy) McCall and Paul Giel finished with Spencer the victim of Furillo's second homer in the eighth.

Rebels Trounce Rams, 11-6

By TED HECKATHORN

The West Monroe High Rebels, inaugurating Legion Memorial Stadium for the '55 campaign, trounced the Bastrop Rams, 11-6, in a Triple A Conference tussle last night.

Wayne Hendricks went all the way for the Rebs, allowing but six hits, and fanning nine. The veteran prep righthander was off on his control, however, and four of the Ram tallies were direct results of bases on balls.

The Rebels, who play Neville at the stadium tonight, only collected six hits also, but starting and losing Bastrop hurler, J. W. "Red" Brodnax, gave them all up in his two and one-third inning stint, plus five walks, to be charged with all 11 runs and the defeat.

West Monroe bunched half their hits in the first frame, with Gary Huckaby, Robert Perkins and Richard Watson doing the damage. Perkins' blow was a double to center. The timely hits, along with three bases on balls, brought six runs.

In the third, the Rebs' attack produced five markers, and chased Brodnax form the hill. The payoff hit was a bases-loaded triple off the bat of Billy Joe Thompson, fololwing singles by Dernis Fields and Hendricks, and a walk to Mack Hunt. Perkins had previously tallied when he led off with a walk, stole second, and hustled home on a single.

No Rebel batsman collected more than one hit, while Bastrop relief turler, Terry Murray, off whom the Rebs failed to get a hit, garnered two for the losers, as did Brodnax.

Maroney Leads Lions To 10-8 Win Over LaSalle

By TED HECKATHORN

With Johnny Maroney driving in the payoff tallies, and taking the heart out of a LaSalle last - inning rally with a circus catch the Ouachita Lions came from behind to hand the visiting Tigers a 10-8 defeat yesterday afternoon at the West Monroe Playgrounds.

The Tigers tallied three runs in the first inning to the Lions' one, but in the bottom of the second, Ouachita's T. L. Fuller and H. B. Bennett drew walks. Maroney, with a count of three and two, smashed the next pitch into left, a blow so hard that the LaSalle left fielder wasn't able to field it cleanly, and both baserunners easily scored, with Johnny getting a double. He scored himself a moment later with the go-ahead run on Jackie DuPriest's sharp single to right.

The Lions accounted for two more in the sixth on a cluster of singles by Ike McMullen, Jeff Spence and Fuller, and a brace of LaSalle errors.

LaSalle collected two in the third, when Ouachita starter Bennett weakened and was releived by Jimmy Hunt; but their big rally came in the final frame, when they scored three runs. A running, leaping, one-handed stab in the outfield by Maroney, off the bat of LaSalle pitcher John Carter; and a heads-up defensive play by Crowe to Ralph Ward at third cut the uprising short.

Crowe and Spence were the leading Lion stickmen, each with three hits in four trips; while Ken Winberry sparkled for the Tiger batsmen with four safeties, including a double, in as many trips.

Ruttman Will Handle Front-Drive Machine

INDIANAPOLIS, April 15 (AP)— Troy Ruttman of Houston, Tex., winner of the 1952 Indianapolis 500-mile race, was nominated today to pilot a front-drive Novi Special in the quarter-million-dollar speed event May 30.

Duke Nalon failed to qualify the Novi last year but Tony Bettenhausen unofficially broke the speedway record with it in a test run after the race. Lewis Welch of Novi, Mich., owns the car, one of a series of supercharged monsters, two of which carried veterans Chet Miller and Ralph Hepburn to their deaths in practice runs.

With the entry deadline at midnight tonight, the speedway had 50 entries and expected about 10 more by mail.

Tribe Faces Lions In Battle Of Unbeaten Gulf Foes

Northeast Meets Southeastern On Field Here Today

Northeast State will make its home Gulf State Conference debut here today against the Southeastern Louisiana College Lions from Hammond. Game time is 2 p.m. at the college diamond. Both are unbeaten in league play.

Southeastern is defending co-champion of the G.S.C. along with Louisiana Tech, a rival the Lions defeated yesterday at Ruston, 9-3, giving Southeastern a 2-0 conference record for the season.

In the only conference outing for the Tribe they defeated McNeese by a 10 to 7 count.

A look at the overall records shows the Indians superior with a 4-2 mark. The Lions have won four games while dropping eight. However, Southeastern has won three of its last four games and is rated as one of the better teams in the conference.

Coach George Luffey has selected ace pitcher, Billy Joe "Bo" Laird, to hurl for his Indians. Laird, a tall, strongarm right hander, has chalked up two wins without a loss this season.

Having been rained out Tuesday in a scheduled double header with Mississippi College, the Tribe has played only one game within the past two weeks.

Coach Luffey's crew is well rested for the battle today. This layoff may be a liability rather an asset, however, he fears.

Coach Pat Kenelly's big guns are outfielders Ray Porta and Tommy Bell. Both of these boys have been dependable throughout the early campaign for the Lions.

Strong boys for Luffey's Indians are Sam Campbell, Tommy Leos, Jimmy Bradley and Harold Davis.

Harold Moore, who for the past week has been working at first base, may be inserted into the lineup if the Tribe needs additional power at the plate.

Luffey will send his regular men into the first home conference game. They are Billy Thompson, catcher; Bobby Mays, first base; Campbell, second base; Davis, third base; Bradley, short stop; Leos, left field; Don Stewart, center field; and Jackie Neal, right field.

Turley Trips Bosox, 6-4, In First Start As Yank

By BOB HOOBING

BOSTON, April 15 (AP)—Bullet Bob Turley, on whose right arm the New York Yankees have placed their American League pennant hopes, beat the Boston Red Sox 6-4 on a five-hitter today in a battle of home runs.

Bill Skowron, Hank Bauer and Joe Collins homered for New York. Faye Throneberry, the Sox "new" Ted Williams, connected for two and Jackie Jensen one for the losers.

Turley, making his first start for the Yankees since his off-season acquisition from Baltimore, showed the control which had eluded him much of last year despite serving three home run pitches. He struck out 10 batters while walking but two.

In 1954 with the Orioles the fastball expert fanned 185 but walked 181.

Turley was the big man in the winter trade to pump up the New York pitching staff which lost the retiring Allie Reynolds. He demonstrated his grit in the ninth inning as he went behind the first batter, Sammy White, 2-0 with the slim crowd of 8,770 at Fenway Park screaming for a rally.

He forced White to pop to the third baseman on a bad pitch, then struck out Norm Zauchin and Ted Lepcio to end it.

Throneberry, lefthanded left fielder who succeeded the absent Williams, homered in the first inning for one run and lashed a two-run drive in the eigth following a walk to Billy Goodman.

The other Turley fastball that went away was boomed by Jensen with one out in the fourth inning high over the left field screen to the roof of a building across Landsdowne street.

The Fishing Report

CHENIERE LAKE

The early-week rain "messed things up a bit" but bream fishing, which had been fair before the rain, was picking up again by Thursday and some "specks" were being taken, although no big catches were reported.

Better weather promises improved fishing by the weekend, but this remains to be proven by the fishermen. Live baits, shiners and crickets, are still the main lures for speckled perch and bream.

Few bass are reported caught right now and takes on artificial lures are still light but are due to improve with warmer weather and steadying waters.

The lake was muddied a bit from gravel pit washings coming into the lake with a particular "streak of colored water" showing near the bank in the Camp's Camp vicinity, but the water is reported in good condition a short distance out from the bank and over the lake in general.

BAYOU DESIARD

Bream have been taking worms with good success, and fly fishing for bream apparently is about ready to come in for a good share of sport with some already being taken on flys.

The bass fishing hasn't been strong, but the big ones have been striking on top of the water for their natural food in the last few days, and should begin to take artificial baits soon, either top-water or sub-surface lures.

BLACK BAYOU LAKES

Chinquapin bream are going on earthworms, while fair catches are being reported of "bull" bream on crickets.

Southern Solons Critical Of U. S. Cotton Program

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP)—Two southern senators today criticized Agriculture Department officials on grounds they took no action to see that small cotton farmers got a fair share of the reduced cotton acreage this year.

Sen. Stennis (D-Miss) said the state farmer committee in Mississippi "did not set aside any acreage for small farmers—with five acres and under" and federal farm officials here did not correct this.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga), presiding at an Appropriation subcommittee hearing on the annual Agriculture Department bill, sponsored Stennis. He told Assistant Secretary of Agriculture James A. McConnell he wants "to be certain the same thing does not happen again."

McConnell and other department spokesmen promised a special report to the Appropriations Committee on the problem and plans for next year.

The protests recalled failure to help the small cotton farmers. The House passed a cotton acreage increase but this was defeated on the Senate floor after southern and western cotton areas got in a deadlock over the extra acreage and wheat state senators added a proposal to boost wheat plantings.

Song Writer To Pay Bad Debts Of Father—$300,000

HOLLYWOOD, April 15 (AP) — Song writer Johnny Mercer said today he is putting up $300,000 to clear a 28-year-old debt of his father's business.

"He felt pretty bad about it when it happened. He wished he could do it," Mercer said of the debt clearance. "He made good all he could. I just tried to finish it up."

The composer said a report printed yesterday in his native Savannah, Ga., was "a little premature," and "I didn't expect any publicity. Nothing's happened yet." Mercer said the arrangement "isn't just a one-man thing." Details, he added, should come from his brothers, George, Walter and Hugh Mercer, in Savannah, or president George Hunt of the Chatham Savings Bank there.

The debt was incurred at the time of the liquidation of G. A. Mercer Co., his father's real estate and investment business, in Savannah. Johnny, in his teens at the time, has no legal liability for the debt. His father died in 1940.

The company sold the certificates to various investors before 1927. That year the firm found itself unable to liquidate its assets fast enough to meet demands of certificate holders for payment. The Chatham Savings Bank, by agreement with the creditors, was named liquidating agent.

Huggins To Take Chances, Seeks To Be Freed On Bail

FORT WORTH, April 15—UP—Former convict Harry Huggins indicated Friday that he may take a chance on underworld vengeance and try to get himself bailed out of Tarrant county jail.

Huggins is charged with the murder of William P. Clark, Texas-New Mexico oil millionaire, two years ago. He defied the code of the underworld in his confession by implicating two other hoodlums.

The two, tough guy LeRoy (Tincy) Eggleston of Fort Worth and Cecil Green of Dallas, also have been charged with murder.

Clark's wife, Mrs. Mary Clark, was charged as an accomplice after Huggins said she "guaranteed" Eggleston, Green and himself $10,000 to rob and murder Clark.

Clark was killed in May, 1953, and until Huggins confession, his death, though it was known to be murder, had been surrounded by mystery.

Deputy Police Chief Andre Fournier confirmed reports District Attorney Howard Fender and detective Capt. O. R. Brown have gone to Huntsville. He said they want to question a convict in state prison who may throw new light on the case.

WOMAN ELECTROCUTED

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP)—A high voltage power line electrocuted Mrs. Alton Raines today as she and her husband were installing a television antenna on their trailer home.

The antenna fell across the line, killing Mrs. Raines, about 50, and shocking her husband. He was revived and hospitalized.

Raines, a government inspector at a local plant, moved to Vicksburg from Birmingham, Ala., four months ago.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

WASHINGTON, April 15 (AP)—Two southern senators today criticized Agriculture Department officials on grounds they took no action to see that small cotton farmers got a fair share of the reduced cotton acreage this year.

Sen. Stennis (D-Miss) said the state farmer committee in Mississippi "did not set aside any acreage for small farmers—with five acres and under" and federal farm officials here did not correct this.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga), presiding at an Appropriation subcommittee hearing on the annual Agriculture Department bill, sponsored Stennis. He told Assistant Secretary of Agriculture James A. McConnell he wants "to be certain the same thing does not happen again."

McConnell and other department spokesmen promised a special report to the Appropriations Committee on the problem and plans for next year.

The protests recalled failure to help the small cotton farmers. The House passed a cotton acreage increase but this was defeated on the Senate floor after southern and western cotton areas got in a deadlock over the extra acreage and wheat state senators added a proposal to boost wheat plantings.

Confessed Killer Waives Extradition To Dallas County

NEW ORLEANS, April 15 (AP) — A 23-year-old man who admitted killing two men in Texas, waived extradition today and will be returned to Dallas.

New Orleans police identified the man as Arturo Velasquez of Dallas, and said his arrest followed discovery of a bullet hole in the rear of his automobile.

Valesquez was picked up at a paint shop where he worked after police narcotics patrolmen watched the car for several days.

They said Valesquez told officers someone had shot at him.

Patrolmen Paul Gustafson, William Moore and two other officers made the arrest. They said Valesquez told them he shot one man to death about two months ago in an argument over a woman.

The officers quoted Valesquez as saying he knifed another man to death in 1952 when he was fighting off "a robbery."

The names of the men allegedly killed were not known

Godfrey Fires Six Top Performers On Program

NEW YORK, April 15 —UP— Arthur Godfrey fired six of his top performers and three writers Friday in a surprise shakeup of the cast of his radio and TV shows.

Singer Marion Marlowe, Hawaiian singer Haleloke, long a Godfrey favorite, and the Mariners, a quartet that joined Godfrey show in 1940, all got the axe.

The writers are Charles Horner, Preston H. Miles and Charles Slocum.

The former "little Godfreys" said they were shocked and that the firings came as a complete surprise.

Miss Marlowe wept and friends said "they never had seen anyone so shaken up."

Godfrey called the performers and the three writers to his office after his show went off the air at noon Friday.

"He told them they were through as of today and then said, 'any questions?'" Miss Marlowe told a friend later.

Godfrey's announced reason for the action was "the interests of good showmanship." But he hinted in an announcement issued through the Columbia Broadcasting System that he might be concerned about the declining popularity of the shows as reflected in recent radio-TV polls.

"No radio or television program can endure unless it can sustain interest despite the dreary dearth of ideas and the inherent limitations of the media," he said.

Godfrey's Wednesday night "Arthur Godfrey and his Friends" show, which he considers his top program, has been missing from the top 10 since September of last year, the Nielsen national TV ratings showed.

The show ranked fourth in American Research Bureau national television listings in March, 1053, and had fallen to 20th by March of this year.

Both Miss Marlowe and the Mariners have been appearing in night clubs throughout the country for some time.

Immediately following Godfrey's announcement, Miss Marlowe was signed for six performances on the Ed Sullivan show at $3,000 each. She already had a contract to appear with Sullivan on April 24.

The last outbreak of yellow fever in the United States was in New Orleans in 1905.

MORE FUNDS NEEDED

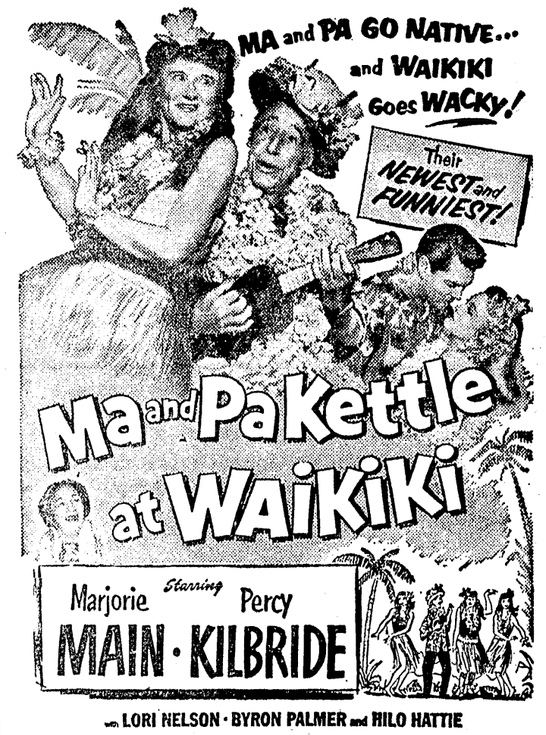

Last year scientists sought $8,600,532 in grants from the American Cancer Society, but because of lack of funds at hand, it could grant only $5,242,167. Give to conquer cancer.

Confessed Killer Waives Extradition To Dallas County

NEW ORLEANS, April 15 (AP) — A 23-year-old man who admitted killing two men in Texas, waived extradition today and will be returned to Dallas.

New Orleans police identified the man as Arturo Velasquez of Dallas, and said his arrest followed discovery of a bullet hole in the rear of his automobile.

Valesquez was picked up at a paint shop where he worked after police narcotics patrolmen watched the car for several days.

They said Valesquez told officers someone had shot at him.

Patrolmen Paul Gustafson, William Moore and two other officers made the arrest. They said Valesquez told them he shot one man to death about two months ago in an argument over a woman.

The officers quoted Valesquez as saying he knifed another man to death in 1952 when he was fighting off "a robbery."

The names of the men allegedly killed were not known

Godfrey Fires Six Top Performers On Program

NEW YORK, April 15 —UP— Arthur Godfrey fired six of his top performers and three writers Friday in a surprise shakeup of the cast of his radio and TV shows.

Singer Marion Marlowe, Hawaiian singer Haleloke, long a Godfrey favorite, and the Mariners, a quartet that joined Godfrey show in 1940, all got the axe.

The writers are Charles Horner, Preston H. Miles and Charles Slocum.

The former "little Godfreys" said they were shocked and that the firings came as a complete surprise.

Miss Marlowe wept and friends said "they never had seen anyone so shaken up."

Godfrey called the performers and the three writers to his office after his show went off the air at noon Friday.

"He told them they were through as of today and then said, 'any questions?'" Miss Marlowe told a friend later.

Godfrey's announced reason for the action was "the interests of good showmanship." But he hinted in an announcement issued through the Columbia Broadcasting System that he might be concerned about the declining popularity of the shows as reflected in recent radio-TV polls.

"No radio or television program can endure unless it can sustain interest despite the dreary dearth of ideas and the inherent limitations of the media," he said.

Godfrey's Wednesday night "Arthur Godfrey and his Friends" show, which he considers his top program, has been missing from the top 10 since September of last year, the Nielsen national TV ratings showed.

The show ranked fourth in American Research Bureau national television listings in March, 1053, and had fallen to 20th by March of this year.

Both Miss Marlowe and the Mariners have been appearing in night clubs throughout the country for some time.

Immediately following Godfrey's announcement, Miss Marlowe was signed for six performances on the Ed Sullivan show at $3,000 each. She already had a contract to appear with Sullivan on April 24.

The last outbreak of yellow fever in the United States was in New Orleans in 1905.

Weed Control, Fertilizer Bring Big Farm Yields

By FRANK NOONAN
(FARM EDITOR)

Weeds are robbers of plant food and operating profits, and fertilizer properly used pays five-fold divdends, farmers and businessmen were told yesterday during a pasture tour of two Ouachita parish farms.

Some 35 persons turned out for the tour of the farms of M. S. Dixson and sons, and H. L. Gregg and son, near Sterlington, which was sponsored by the parish's four agricultural agencies.

The visitors waded knee deep through lush stands of wheat, oats, crimson clover, and other verdant forage, and paused at various points while the farm owners and agricultural officials explained vital elements of pasture management, production, and weed control.

Acting county agent T. H. Milliken said that one-third of the earth is covered with grass, and crops. He said that the chemical mixture, 2-4-D was effective in routing dock from pastures, and that it also served to stimulate grasses, while killing or setting back clovers.

The agent added that crimson clover cannot survive the chemical, which was applied to a dock-infested pasture on the Dixson farm, but experiments indicate that when it is applied to white Dutch clover, it retards it to such an extent that incidence of bloat in cattle grazing on it is cut down immensely. He added, however, that at present there is no complete scientific data to substantiate this.

The agent said that it takes five times as much water for weeds than it does for grass, and Dr. N. D. Morgan, agronomist with the American Potash Institute, who headquarters in Shreveport, observed that when plant foods are present in the soil the weeds get it ahead of other types of vegetation.

The agronomist also pointed out that when plant food is not in solution, it cannot be absorbed by plants, emphasizing the need for putting fertilizer down in the soil where there is more moisture.

Shallow tillage was also listed by Morgan as one of the pitfalls facing many farmers. He estimated that three-fourths of those in the state break the land only to a depth of four inches, piling four inches of soil on top of the ground and figuring that tillage has been to a depth of eight inches.

He probed the soil in several of the pastures with a tube which was partly open on one side allowing soil cores to be inspected and described by him. Morgan said that plow pan at a shallow depth was depriving many plants in areas around the state of proper growth.

S. R. Aycock, work unit conservationist of the parish Soil Conservation Service advised farmers to follow good management practices, fertilize amply, and where possible, irrigate when there is deficiency of moisture in the soil.

The elder Dixson described how the lush stands of pasture on his farm had been developed on land that four years ago had been impoverished by drouth, and was virtually bare of vegetation.

Application of fertilizer, breaking of soil, some irrigation and careful management and planting of good forage stock were pointed out as bringing about the transformation.

Commenting on this Dr. Morgan said that he had found it easier to overcome the barriers of cold weather than he had those of hot weather in raising forage, and that more farmers should strive to develop winter pastures.

Dixson and sons have about 350 head of beef cattle of several varities. Charbray bull are used as sires for the grade cattle, however. Gregg has some 200 head of cattle, mainly crosses between Charbray and Brahman, and Charbray and White Faces.

There are some 200 acres of improved pastures — wheat, oats, rye grass, white Dutch, Crimson clover and other types of forage —on the Dixson farm, and 233 acres of pastures on the Gregg farm. A stand of fescue on the Gregg place which was well fertilized, survived three years of drouth without aid of irrigation. Some pastures on the two farms from sprinkler irrigation systems which draw water from nearby Bayou Bartholomew.

Planting of pastures through use of the sod seeder, which leaves forage being grazed undisturbed, was also demonstrated at one of the stops.

Agencies and representatives sponsoring the tour were State Extension Service, acting county agent, T. H. Milliken, A. R. Mophett; Soil Conservation Service, work unit conservationist, S. R. Aycock; Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Bob Harmon, parish commitee chairman, and C. R. McEachern, of the Farmers Home Administration.

Weed Control, Fertilizer Bring Big Farm Yields

By FRANK NOONAN
(FARM EDITOR)

Weeds are robbers of plant food and operating profits, and fertilizer properly used pays five-fold divdends, farmers and businessmen were told yesterday during a pasture tour of two Ouachita parish farms.

Some 35 persons turned out for the tour of the farms of M. S. Dixson and sons, and H. L. Gregg and son, near Sterlington, which was sponsored by the parish's four agricultural agencies.

The visitors waded knee deep through lush stands of wheat, oats, crimson clover, and other verdant forage, and paused at various points while the farm owners and agricultural officials explained vital elements of pasture management, production, and weed control.

Acting county agent, T. H. Milliken said that one-third of the earth is covered with grass, and crops. He said that the chemical mixture, 2-4-D, was effective in routing dock from pastures, and that it also served to stimulate grasses, while killing or setting back clovers.

The agent added that crimson clover cannot survive the chemical, which was applied to a dock-infested pasture on the Dixson farm, but experiments indicate that when it is applied to white Dutch clover, it retards it to such an extent that incidence of bloat in cattle grazing on it is cut down immensely. He added, however, that at present there is no complete scientific data to substantiate this.

The agent said that it takes five times as much water for weeds than it does for grass, and Dr. N. D. Morgan, agronomist with the American Potash Institute, who headquarters in Shreveport, observed that when plant foods are present in the soil the weeds get it ahead of other types of vegetation.

The agronomist also pointed out that when plant food is not in solution, it cannot be absorbed by plants, emphasizing the need for putting fertilizer down in the soil where there is more moisture.

Shallow tillage was also listed by Morgan as one of the pitfalls facing many farmers. He estimated that three-fourths of those in the state break the land only to a depth of four inches, piling four inches of soil on top of the ground and figuring that tillage has been to a depth of eight inches.

He probed the soil in several of the pastures with a tube which was partly open on one side, allowing soil cores to be inspected and described by him. Morgan said that plow pan at a shallow depth was depriving many plants in areas around the state of proper growth.

S. R. Aycock, work unit conservationist of the parish Soil Conservation Service advised farmers to follow good management practices, fertilize amply, and where possible, irrigate when there is deficiency of moisture in the soil.

The elder Dixson described how the lush stands of pasture on his farm had been developed on land that four years ago had been improverished by drouth, and was virtually bare of vegetation.

Application of fertilizer, breaking of soil, some irrigation, and careful management and planting of good forage stock were pointed out as bringing about the transformation.

Commenting on this Dr. Morgan said that he had found it easier to overcome the barriers of cold weather than he had those of hot weather, in raising forage, and that more farmers should strive to develop winter pastures.

Dixson and sons have about 350 head of beef cattle of several varities. Charbray bull are used as sires for the grade cattle, however. Gregg has some 200 head of cattle, mainly crosses between Charbray and Brahman, and Charbray and White Faces.

There are some 200 acres of improved pastures — wheat, oats, rye grass, white Dutch, Crimson clover and other types of forage —on the Dixson farm, and 233 acres of pastures on the Gregg farm. A stand of fescue on the Gregg place which was well fertilized, survived three years of drouth without aid of irrigation. Some pastures on the two farms from sprinkler irrigation systems which draw water from nearby Bayou Bartholomew.

Planting of pastures through use of the sod seeder, which leaves forage being grazed undisturbed, was also demonstrated at one of the stops.

Agencies and representatives sponsoring the tour were State Extension Service, acting county agent, T. H. Milliken, A. R. Mophett; Soil Conservation Service, work unit conservationist, S. R. Aycock; Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Bob Harmon, parish committee chairman, and C. R. McEachern, of the Farmers Home Administration.

40th Anniversary To Be Celebrated By Tulane School

NEW ORLEANS, April 15 (Special) — The Tulane University school of business administration will celebrate its 40th anniversary in special ceremonies, April 22, on the Tulane campus.

The anniversary celebration will feature a special business talk by a prominent New Orleans businessman; student - faculty business class demonstrations for New Orleans business and industrial leaders; and an anniversary banquet in honor of the original guarantors of the school.

The school was founded in September, 1914 through the cooperation of the New Orleans Association of Commerce, the Society of Louisiana Certified Public Accountants, and 222 persons, firms and corporations who guaranteed expenses of the school for the first six years of its existence.

These 222 pioneers in the field of business education became the first known group in the United States to establish cooperatively a school of business and to underwrite its expenses.

The school was founded through the efforts of Dr. Morton A. Aldrich, who became its first dean and who will receive a special tribute during the anniversary banquet, which is scheduled for 7:30 p. m., April 22, at the Tulane cafeteria.

HOPE SEEN IN MEDIATION

WASHINGTON — UP — Union sources said Friday they believe there is "a ray of hope" that agreement can be reached to end the month-long Louisville & Nashville Railroad strike. It was the first time since mediation talks began that union sources have expressed any optimism about the outlook for a settlement.

Monroe-Bastrop $417,380 Job To Start April 18

Construction begins April 18 on a $417,380 highway improvement project on the Monroe - Bastrop highway in Ouachita and Morehouse parishes, board of highways chairman Fred Preaus announced.

Preaus said the highway contract went to Coastal Contractors, Inc., on basis of their low bid of last March 23. Plans call for the widening of the 18-foot concrete to 24 feet and surfacing with asphalt cement.

The projects begin near the junction of State Routes 11 and 200 northeast of Monroe and extend northeasterly along Hwy. 11 a distance of 12¼ miles to the end of the existing concrete pavement in Bastrop. The other section of the project begins at the concrete pavement on State Hwy. 14 in Bastrop and extends north across State Hwy. 11 a distance of approximately one mile to the end of the existing concrete paving.

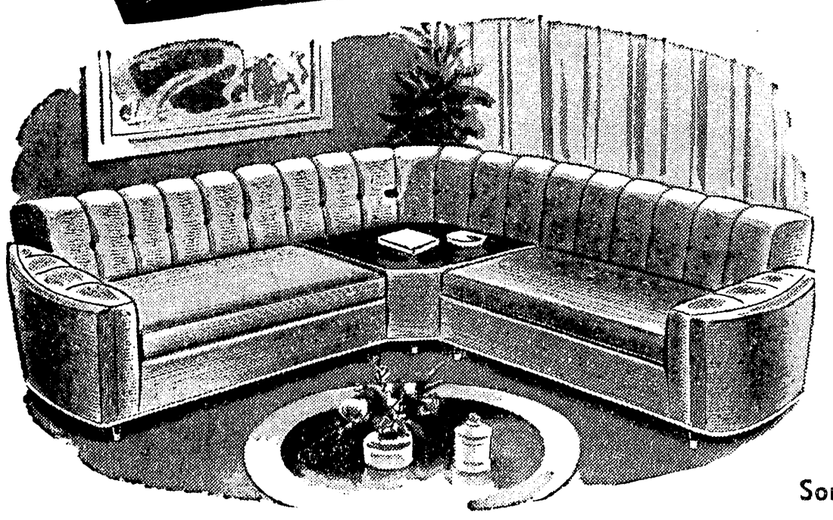

This 13-mile modernization program should be completed in 12 months. George Forman of Monroe, project engineer for the highway department, said that during the one year required for construction the contractor will provide for through and local traffic at all times.
